COURT OF APPEALS CHUCKS DON'S TARIFF POWER; CASE TO GO TO SC

A federal court ruled that President Trump had no legal right to impose tariffs on almost all nations. But his protectionist powers remain for now

TARIFFS STAY IN PLACE UNTIL MID-OCTOBER

By 7:4, the US Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit upheld a decision taken in May by a Manhattan Trade Court. Both courts concurred on the misuse of the International Emergency Economic Powers Act (IEEPA) under which the tariffs were ordered. But the ruling allows Trump's administration until mid-October to appeal to the Supreme Court

COURT REJECTS TRUMP'S IEEPA CLAIM

- Trump's attempt to justify tariffs under IEEPA was rejected, with court ruling trade deficit does not meet the criteria for an emergency
- Several legal challenges remain against Trump's tariffs, including cases from businesses and states. While the recent ruling limits presidential power, the government is expected to appeal | P12

Both sides looking at long-term stability while addressing geopolitical challenges

All eyes on Modi-Xi talks to stabilise bilateral ties today

JAYANTH JACOB @ New Delhi

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi arrived in China for his first visit in over seven years, marking a significant moment in the evolving India-China relationship. Modi's arrival in Tianjin on Saturday evening is set against a backdrop of global economic uncertainty by US tariffs, which have disrupted international trade and altered geopolitics.

The timing of the visit couldn't be more critical, with Modi scheduled to meet Chinese President Xi Jinping on Sunday for a high-stakes discussion on "stabilising the bilateral ties long term" and enhancing economic cooperation.

The buzzword ahead of the meeting is stability. Both India and China are seeking to chart a course that ensures long-term stability in their relationship, while also addressing larger geopolitical issues. With both countries being key players in the global economic landscape, the talks will focus on collaborating to restore stability to the international economic order, which has been shaken by trade disputes, especially those instigated by Trump's tariffs.

A source said: "The long-term stability in the bilateral relationship is what the two sides are looking at, through greater trust and sensitivity to each other's concerns." Both nations have already made efforts to normalise ties since Modi and Xi's last meeting in Kazan, prior to the 2020 border clashes that severely strained relations.

The economic angle is central to the discussions. With the trade relationship under pressure, both sides are keen to explore ways to expand economic ties. Additionally, the resumption of direct flights and the revival of people-to-people exchanges are expected to be key topics. "PM Modi himself spoke about the need for India and China, as two of the world's largest economies, to work together to bring stability to the world economy amid current volatility," said a source familiar with the preparations.

Modi's visit is also set within a broader geopolitical context. With tensions in India-US ties over trade and tariffs, the prime minister's diplomatic outreach to China is viewed as a move to carefully and pragmatically recalibrate India's foreign policy in the face of shifting global alliances. The SCO summit, where Modi is attending, also provides an opportunity for him to meet Russian President Vladimir Putin and other global leaders on the sidelines.

As the summit progresses, all eyes will be on Modi and Xi's talks, with the world watching to see how two major powers navigate the complexities of their ties and contribute to global economic stability.

Look forward to meeting leaders: PM

"Landed in Tianjin, China. Looking forward to deliberations at the SCO Summit and meeting various world leaders," Modi said on social media

Don no longer plans to visit India for Quad Summit: NYT

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

US President Donald Trump no longer has plans to visit India for the Quad Summit later this year, The New York Times reported on Saturday, outlining how relations between him and Prime Minister Narendra Modi deteriorated in recent months.

In its report titled "The Nobel Prize and a Testy Phone Call: How the Trump-Modi Relationship Unraveled", sources familiar with Trump's schedule revealed that after initially assuring Modi of a visit to India for the Quad Summit later this year, Trump now has no plans to make the trip in the fall.

There has been no official word on the NYT's claims.

The fallout reportedly began after the US President's repeated claims that he had "solved" the India-Pakistan conflict in May — a statement India vehemently denied. The report indicates that Modi became increasingly frustrated with Trump's interventions, with tensions reaching a boiling point after their June 17 phone call. Trump claimed during the call that Pakistan was going to nominate him for the Nobel Peace Prize. The not-so-subtle implication was that Modi should do likewise, the paper said. But Modi said US role had nothing to do with the truce.

Registration fee for properties in state doubles from today

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE registration cost of properties in the state will double from Sunday. The state government had issued a notification on August 29 stating that the registration fee of properties will increase from 1% to 2%, with effect from August 31. The notification was made public on August 30. Interestingly, various sub-registrar offices in the state had shut operations from Friday 4 pm citing maintenance works. Services in most of the sub-registrar offices resumed from 4 pm on Saturday.

Sources in the stamps and registration offices said: "We had stopped registration of properties as revisions as per notifications were to be made on servers. The services were resumed from Saturday 4 pm onwards. But the number of people who came was less as many were under the assumption that the offices close on Saturday afternoon."

Another sub-registrar said there was a debate among the officials whether to shut operations or not as it was equivalent of denying the right to people. "However, at many places services were hindered and so property registrations saw a lull since Friday evening till Saturday evening," the official said.

Citing an example, Manandi Suresh, a real estate expert from FKCCI said: "The registration cost of property depends on guidance value and market value. A flat in most places in Bengaluru costs Rs one crore, then the registration cost which was Rs 1 lakh will now increase to Rs 2 lakh." He added that lease/ rental agreements, advance registration charges and even bank registration charges will also increase from 1% to 2%.

With this the state government is looking to earn additional revenue of around Rs 3,000 crore, from August 31 to March 31, 2026, said Munish Moudgil, Principal Secretary, Revenue Department.

GST 2.0 revenue loss: 8 Oppn-ruled states seek relief for 5 years

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

THE Congress party announced on Saturday that eight opposition-led states have backed the proposal to simplify the Goods and Services Tax (GST) rate slabs and reduce rates for mass consumption items. However, these states have stressed the need for safeguards to protect their fiscal interests.

Congress leader Jairam Ramesh urged the government to ensure that the benefits of rate reductions are passed on to consumers and not used as a headline-grabbing tactic.

Jairam Ramesh

He also emphasised the importance of advancing cooperative federalism during the upcoming GST Council meeting. The eight states—Karnataka, Himachal Pradesh, Jharkhand, Kerala, Punjab, Tamil Nadu, Telangana, and West Bengal—have called for compensation for the potential revenue losses they will incur due to the rate cuts, with 2024-25 as the base year. They have also demanded that any additional levies on 'sin' and luxury goods be fully transferred to the states.

Ramesh further pointed out that the Centre retains 17-18% of its revenue through cesses that are not shared with the states. He called these demands perfectly legitimate and backed by research from the Union Finance Ministry's National Institute of Public Finance & Policy (NIPFP).

The Congress leader reiterated that his party has long advocated for a simplified GST system, particularly one that benefits the small and medium-sized enterprises (MSMEs).

The Congress leader said his party has advocated for a simplified GST framework, particularly for MSMEs, and hopes that the upcoming GST Council meeting will prioritise genuine cooperative federalism over political posturing.

PARIS is often referred to as the city of love. It's easy to see why. The leitmotifs of the French capital has been one of romance, allure and seduction. The Notre Dame. The Monalisa. The Eiffel Tower. In Before Sunset, a movie set in Paris, Richard Linklater's in a seminal three-part exploration of love and relationships, Jesse, played by Ethan Hawke, remarks to Celine (Julie Delpy), 'Life is tough... If we didn't suffer, we would never learn anything'. In a way wherever there's love, heartbreaks linger. To a dreamer, pain is a reminder that they have to work harder.

Eleven months ago, Satwiksairaj Rankireddy and Chirag Shetty were crestfallen. The dream of an Olympic medal had slipped past them in Paris, their favourite city. Facing Malaysia's Aaron Chia and Soh Wooi Yik, their arch-rivals, in quarterfinals of the Games, they had come within five points. Post that loss, for three months, the duo didn't play a competitive tie as they wanted to heal.

What a difference a year makes. As India slept on Friday night, they exorcised those demons in the same city and against the same opponents in the quarterfinals of the World Championships. Sure, there's perhaps no greater heartache than missing out an Olympic medal but winning a Worlds medal will act as a balm. The straight games win is also a reminder of the talent they possess. In 2024, they suffered. In 2025, the deliverance will be sweet. P15

Ganesha's message of harmony: Muslim youth celebrate fest here

RAGHOTTAM KOPPAR @Gadag

IT is a powerful message of communal harmony from this small village in North Karnataka. Muslim youth in Sandigavad village of Ron taluk from Gadag district have installed a Ganesha idol and performed puja for the last four days. To top it, these youth recite Ganesha stotras without referring to any book or text.

They have been celebrating Ganesha Chaturthi for the last three years, by placing the idol at an Ashoor Khana (a Muslim religious site) to promote communal harmony. In this village, Hindus, Muslims and others celebrate all festivals like Ramzan, Deepavali, Christmas, Muharram, Ganesha Chaturthi, Dasara, Eid Milad and Ugadi together.

The youth decided to create awareness on communal harmony in the village and surrounding areas as they were disturbed by increasing incidents of communal disturbance and started Ganesha celebration in 2023. They also learnt the stotras and other rituals. Prodded by other villagers, they also started singing folk songs, so that the children could learn them and carry forward the tradition.

Soon after, the villagers started celebrating other festivals too by gathering residents from all religions and denominations. The initiative by the youth, especially Munna Nadaf, Dawalsab Nadaf, Ladsab and Hasansab, has made the village famous in the district.

Villagers said they are proud of their youth. "We wish this could be followed in other villages too, so that the entire Gadag district can be a model for communal harmony," said Ningappa, Honnappa and others.

Munna Nadaf and Hasansab said, "We have set an example by installing the Ganesha idol and celebrating festivals together. We are all equal here."

Experimental farmer Naveen Manganawar grows Thailand mangoes in the heat of Kalaburagi, and has a happy harvest throughout the year

Fruits of success

FIROZ ROZINDAR @ Vijayapura

FOR most people, mango is essentially a summer fruit, available only for a brief period before it disappears off the shelves for the rest of the year. But Mahendra Mirajkar, a resident of Solapur in Maharashtra, travelled all the way to Shivanagi village in Vijayapura district to buy mangoes — not in April or May but the monsoon month of August.

The reason for this extraordinary trip was personal. Mirajkar's son, who lives in the United States, was visiting India after two years with his family, and he loved mangoes. Mirajkar had learnt about a farmer who was cultivating a species of mango which grows through the year, and decided to surprise his son. "My son loves mangoes. During mango season, we send him boxes of fruit by courier. But this time, since he is visiting India, I wanted to surprise him with his favourite fruit in August, when it is impossible to get fresh mangoes," Mirajkar said.

In Shivanagi village, he found what he was looking for — fully ripened, naturally sweet, and aromatic mangoes grown in the orchard of farmer Naveen Manganawar, a 45-year-old cultivator who has scripted a remarkable farm success story.

Farmer Naveen Manganawar has 3,000 trees of the Thailand mango variety on his seven-acre orchard in Shivanagi village of Vijayapura district. The mango trees are hardly 4-5 feet tall and bear fruits throughout the year| EXPRESS

Challenging experiment

Unlike other mango growers who depend on the rhythm of seasons, Naveen cultivates a Thailand mango variety that bears fruit throughout the year. While traditional Indian varieties such as Alphonso, Banganapalle or Raspuri appear only during the scorching summer months, the Thailand variety thrives round the year.

Naveen recalls how the idea first struck him more than a decade ago. After completing his Bachelor of Arts degree, he moved to Bengaluru to work in a network marketing company. His job sent him on an official assignment to Thailand in 2011.

"During that trip, I was surprised to see fresh mangoes being sold in December. They tasted really good. I kept wondering how it was possible for farmers to produce mangoes in winter," he said.

Determined to learn more, Naveen visited Thailand six times in the following years. Each trip deepened his understanding of the cultivation techniques and farm management practices. "I interacted with local farmers, studied their methods, and realised that Thailand has developed nearly 50 varieties of mangoes that can yield fruit across all seasons. That was the turning point. I decided that if they could do it there, I must try it in Vijayapura," he recalled.

However, Naveen's dream was not taken seriously. His parents and relatives were openly sceptical. "They thought I was crazy to even think of growing Thailand mangoes here. Many people warned me that the soil and climate of this region would never support such a crop," he said.

But Naveen's determination only grew stronger. After nearly ten years of research and preparation, he finally decided to take the plunge in 2021. He sourced 1,000 saplings from Thailand and planted them on his seven-acre farmland in Shivanagi village. The beginning was not easy. Nearly 350 saplings withered away, unable to adjust to the new soil and climatic conditions. But Naveen did not lose heart. He nurtured the surviving plants with patience and care, relying only on organic inputs such as cow dung and vermicompost, instead of chemical fertilisers.

Harvesting success

The results made him rejoice as the plants started producing mangoes after one year of cultivation. Now, in the second year, the yield has improved. Each tree, which is hardly 4-5 feet tall, gives at least two dozen mangoes, and as they mature, the yield is expected to increase to six or seven dozen fruits per tree, Naveen explained.

He now has about 3,000 trees and every day, he harvests 10 to 12 dozen mangoes, which he sells directly to customers rather than in wholesale markets. "I want people to first know about this variety, taste it, and understand its uniqueness before I go for large-scale commercial sales," he said.

Their speciality lies not just in year-round availability, but also in their natural ripening process. "The fruit ripens on the tree itself. I don't have to use any ripening agents or keep them at home for days. Since they ripen naturally, their flavour, sweetness and aroma are superior," Naveen pointed out.

He is clear about his farming philosophy. "I don't use chemical fertilisers or growth enhancers, only organic manure which ensures the fruit is healthy and chemical-free. I want to give my customers the best, and also set an example to other farmers about the benefits of organic farming," he said.

His orchard has become a point of attraction for fruit lovers, fellow farmers, agricultural students and researchers. Almost every day, groups of farmers visit his farm to learn about cultivation techniques, planting methods and maintenance practices, and Naveen willingly shares his knowledge with them. Naveen said a farmer can start cultivating Thailand mangoes with just Rs 1 lakh, and expand business. "I am ready to offer guidance to anyone who wants to adopt this model. If more farmers take up year-round mango cultivation, it could transform the agro economy of our district," he said.

This techie's robot awaits 'first in India' tag

Sushanth's passion for robotics was sparked in his childhood by fictional hero Tony Stark

FATHMA SHALOOLA @ Mangaluru

SUSHANTH Sujeer Kumar, a 22-year-old graduate from Srinivas Institute of Technology, Mangaluru, has developed 'Friday', which according to him, is India's first self-learning humanoid robot. The project, inspired by Marvel's Iron Man, is now undergoing tests for the "first in India" tag.

A resident of Uppala in Kerala, Sushanth completed his degree in Robotics, Artificial Intelligence, and Machine Learning this year. His passion for robotics began in childhood, sparked by fictional hero Tony Stark.

"Watching Iron Man's advanced suits made me imagine what it would be like to bring such machines to real life. I also got fascinated by Elon Musk and Marc Raibert, that's where my journey started," he said.

Sushanth began dismantling toys to build drones and planes before creating advanced robots. His key projects include 'Friday', an InMoov based humanoid powered with Large Language Models (LLMs) to interact and learn continuously; 'Lumia', a robot using SLAM (Simultaneous Localisation and Mapping) technology that combines autonomous navigation with emotional communication; and 'Genie', an educational robot being developed to help students learn robotics. He believes they are India's firsts with their own features.

"Friday will always be close to my heart because it was my breakthrough," Sushanth said, adding that building the humanoid took nearly three years of designing, 3D printing, assembly, and programming.The young innovator relies on 3D-printed parts, sensors, motors, and advanced boards such as Raspberry Pi and Jetson Nano, with Robot Operating System as the software backbone. He is now exploring how Large Language Models can be embedded locally in robots to enable independent learning and decision-making without relying on cloud servers.

Sushanth said much of his expertise came through formal education and self-learning. "For coding, I started with ROS through online courses and a lot of trial and error. Back then, ChatGPT wasn't available. So I had to figure things out the hard way. Later, with ChatGPT, it became easier to clarify doubts and accelerate my learning," he said. His foundation in electronics came while doing PCME (Physics, Chemistry, Mathematics, Electronics) PU course at St Aloysius College, Mangaluru, before deepening further during his B.Tech course at Srinivas Institute of Technology.

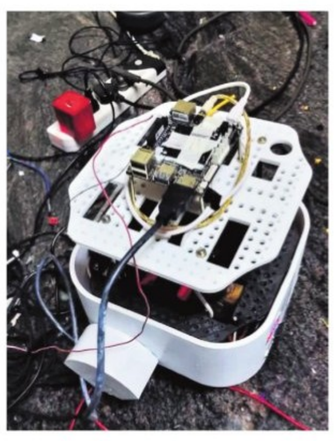

But his journey has not been without hurdles. "I've burnt boards, damaged motors, and had robots behave unpredictably due to sensor errors. Those failures taught me valuable lessons in power management, wiring, and safe coding," he said. He has been honoured with awards for his science working models at 'Sasthramela' and other state-level events.

Sushanth faced many challenges in managing projects where there were limited resources and references. "When I built Friday, I used a Raspberry Pi and integrated a large language model, which made it unique. But I had to figure out many things on my own. Not to mention the extensive trial and error 3D printing cycles, constant design modifications. But all these experiences taught me to be resourceful, patient and innovative," he said.

On how long it will take to create a robot, Sushanth said, "Simple robots might take a few weeks. But for advanced ones such as humanoid or companion robots, it takes several months. It is a long process of research, designing, 3D printing, assembling, building hardware and finally integrating them and coding. Since I often experiment with ROS and new APIs, debugging also takes a good amount of time," he said.

"My robots are designed not just for experiments, but for education, research and exploring how machines can connect with people. Every robot I build is not just a project, but a long journey of learning," he said.

Justice H N Nagamohan Das hands over the inquiry report to Chief Minister Siddaramaiah on Saturday | EXPRESS

THE Justice HN Nagamohan Das Commission on Saturday submitted its inquiry report on alleged irregularities in implementation of civil works, in 761 randomly selected jobs worth Rs 3,500 crore, implemented under the BBMP's jurisdiction, during the previous BJP regime between 2019-20 and 2022-23.

It has recommended legal action against officials responsible for irregularities and administrative lapses, including issuing tenders and work orders, sub-standard work among others in the 8,900-page report. Since the officials, including engineers, were indulging in alleged corruption, colluding with contractors, the government has to deal with them individually, it said.

The commission was entrusted to investigate work related to solid waste management, lakes, rajakaluves and Smart City Project, which has more civil work compared to the other three. Solid waste management has limited civil work, as it is to do with the collection and disposal of waste.

The Smart City Project included 14,000 works, covering roads, buildings and cable works. Some were selected randomly with the help of an expert, a retired statistics department employee, and a formula evolved to apply to the remaining 90 per cent of works, according to sources.

Lapses were discovered in administration, estimation, procedure, accounts at different stages, bribes for returning EMD amount for those not given tenders and to refund security deposit after work is done, even when warranty period was over. It recommended institutionalising the dissemination of information from time to time, and guidelines and circulars issued by the government for officials. It also suggested that guilty officials be given an opportunity to give an explanation for lapses.

To assess sub-standard works, the expert team made a spot inspection and found that work lacked quality. In certain cases, roads were laid deviating from actual location.

HC ADJOURNS GAMING BAN PLEA TO SEPT 8, CENTRE TO RESPOND

Petitioners request Centre not to notify Act before filing reply

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court adjourned to September 8 the hearing of the plea challenging the constitutional validity of the newly enacted Promotion and Regulation of Online Gaming Act, 2025, while asking the Union government to file its response on an interim prayer of stay sought by the petitioners.

Justice BM Shyam Prasad passed the order on Saturday after hearing the petition filed by New Delhi-based Head Digital Works Private Limited, represented by its CEO Siddharth Sharma and Sumeet Singh Nindrajog from Mumbai, contending that the Centre prohibited and criminalised playing of online games involving stakes of any kind, whether or not such a game is of skill or chance.

As an interim prayer, the petitioners sought a stay on the operation of Sections 2(1)(g), 5, 6, 7 and 9 of the Act, which not only ban online games of skill such as rummy and poker, but also prohibit banks and financial institutions from facilitating financial transactions for any online money gaming service, and treat violations of the Act as a cognisable and non-bailable criminal offence.

Counsel for the petitioners argued that the Act has received the assent of the President, and has not yet been notified. If notified before the Union government files its response, lakhs of employees will be affected and GST worth crores of rupees will be impacted. There will be a huge backlash if the industry is closed overnight. Therefore, the Union government should first file a reply, and not notify the Act unless the matter is heard by court. If government want to notify, let them inform us at least a week in advance so we can move court, he argued, adding that he is not seeking an outright stay.

Countering it, Solicitor General of India Tushar Mehta argued that for the first time, the high court is examining the competence of Parliament with respect to not just gaming, but gaming involving money. This has extra-territorial implications, because it is not just within Karnataka or India, but has transborder implications. Therefore, I cannot oppose the issue of notice, he told the court.

On the interim order, Mehta submitted that once the President has granted consent, notifying the Act is essentially a constitutional legislative function. The judiciary cannot prevent it by the interim order without examining the law, which was not even notified. Merely because a particular individual is aggrieved, it would not be desirable to inform that we are going to implement the law (notifying the Act), which will have to be implemented because of the mandate of the Constitution, he argued.

When the court questioned the possibility of immediate notification, Mehta submitted that he cannot answer that question without taking instructions. The court adjourned the matter to September 8 to enable the Union government to file a response.

Bengaluru: The Subramanyanagar police have arrested a 30-year-old man for allegedly raping and blackmailing a 24-year-old woman he befriended on social media. His father has also been booked for threatening the victim. The accused is identified as Niranjan of Basaveshwaranagar, and had befriended woman on social media. Police said he secretly recorded her private moments and later used the videos to blackmail her. While Niranjan has been arrested and his mobile phone seized, Rajshekhar is absconding.

According to the police, the priest identified as Gururaj Achar was upset over the state government's invitation to International Booker Prize winner Banu Mustaq to inaugurate the traditional Dasara festival. Ban on crackers for Ganesha immmersion in Bengaluru Rural

The Bengaluru Rural district administration on Saturday banned the use of firecrackers during Ganesha idol immersions, religious events, and political programmes, a day after a Class 10 student died and nine others were injured in an explosion during a procession.

The victim, identified as 15-year-old Muni alias Dhanush, succumbed to severe injuries on Friday evening in Mathur village under Doddaballapura town police station limits. Nine others — including police constable Zakir Hussain, forklift driver Muniraju, and residents Yogesh, Nagaraju, Chethan, Ganesh, Lokesh, Maniyakka, and Dhananjay — were injured. Yogesh remains in critical condition with burn injuries, while others sustained minor injuries.

According to police, the idol was mounted on a forklift and was heading for immersion when a plastic bag of firecrackers kept behind the driver's seat exploded around 5.45 pm. Investigators suspect overheating from the engine may have triggered the blast, as the crackers were placed close to it.

A case has been registered against the organisers under Section 105 (culpable homicide not amounting to murder), Section 125A (endangering life or safety), and other provisions of the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita (BNS). Police said the organisers are being questioned, and further investigation is under way. In the wake of the incident, Bengaluru Rural Deputy Commissioner A.B. Basavaraja issued prohibitory orders under Section 163 of the Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita (BNSS). The order cited the installation of nearly 1,800 Ganesha idols across the district and said the ban was essential to prevent similar tragedies.

Over 1L Ganesha idols immersed in BBMP zones

Bengalur: A total of 1.14 lakh Ganesha idols were immersed within Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) limits on Friday. The immersion was carried out across designated permanent and temporary immersion tanks, artificial ponds (kalyanis), and mobile tankers arranged by the civic body. According to BBMP data, the highest number of immersions took place in South Zone, where 52,181 idols were immersed, followed by East Zone with 36,725 idols. The West Zone reported 12,874 immersions and Bommanahalli 1,330 idols. In Dasarahalli, 503 idols were immersed, Mahadevapura (3,299), Rajarajeshwari Nagara (4,105) and Yelahanka (3,385). Of the total idols, 1,04,286 were immersed in permanent or temporary locations, while 11,154 idols were immersed using mobile tankers.

No forest land will be used for Abhiman Studio, says Khandre

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

FOREST, Environment and Ecology Minister Eshwar B. Khandre on Saturday clarified that no forest land will be diverted for non-forestry activities, including the proposed Abhiman Studio in memory of noted actor Vishnuvardhan.

The clarification came a day after Khandre had announced that forest land given in the past would be reclaimed. On Friday, Veerakaputra Srinivas, president of Dr Vishnu Sena Samiti, along with other members, had met the minister seeking clarity.

Khandre explained that in 1935, the then government had declared 62.20 acres in Survey No. 26 of Mailasandra village as Turahalli State Forest. However, in 1969, before the Forest Conservation Act, 1980 came into effect, 20 acres were conditionally allotted to actor T N Balakrishna at the rate of Rs 300 per acre.

In 2003, Balakrishna's children sold 10 acres with government permission, on the condition that the proceeds would be used to develop a film studio. "So far, no construction has taken place, and now even the remaining 10 acres are being sold, which is a violation," Khandre said.

He added that a letter has been sent to the Revenue Department to return the land to the Forest Department. "The land will not be used for a botanical garden or Abhiman Studio," he clarified.

Separate delegations by CM, DCM to Rahul yatra create buzz

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI @ Bengaluru

KARNATAKA Chief Minister Siddaramaiah and his deputy DK Shivakumar leading separate delegations to Leader of Opposition in the Lok Sabha Rahul Gandhi's 'Voter Adhikar Yatra' in poll-bound Bihar has triggered fresh speculation of power politics.

Shivakumar, who is also Karnataka Congress chief, took 11 party legislators, including party chief whip in Assembly Ashok Pattan, on a special flight to the yatra. Many said this was an attempt by Shivakumar to create an impression that he had taken party legislators into confidence.

Close on the heels of Shivakumar's visit, Siddaramaiah took his coterie of cabinet colleagues, including KJ George, Dr G Parameshwara, Satish Jarkiholi, Zameer Ahmed Khan, Dr MC Sudhakar, and party chief whip in Council Saleem Ahmed, to Bihar. Senior leader and MLC BK Hariprasad, also accompanying Siddaramaiah, raised many eyebrows, as he had criticised the CM on many occasions in the past. They, however, seem to have patched up now.

According to party insiders, the equation within Congress has changed, with former MP VS Ugrappa, who was in the Siddaramaiah camp, now shifting allegiance to Shivakumar. "There have been many instances in the past where sympathisers of both the chief minister and deputy chief minister have shifted their loyalties anticipating power transfer," said a party source.

Interestingly, the Siddaramaiah-headed delegation that included his MLC-son Dr Yathindra met Rahul's Man Friday and AICC General Secretary (organisation) KC Venugopal during their Bihar visit.

Putting an end to rumours that Shivakumar has been isolated in the party, Home Minister Dr G Parameshwara said, "Shivakumar is the president of our party. Is he new to politics?! He is competent and has political knowledge. It is not right to say that he is isolated."

DKS RSS anthem row: Delicate power balance in Cong surfaces again

POLITICAL RADAR

RAMU PATIL
Assistant Resident Editor
ramu@newindianexpress.com

Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar often quotes Sanskrit verses with ease to put his political point across and respond to his critics. That, perhaps, was his intent when he recited the Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh (RSS) anthem 'Namaste Sada Vatsale'... His attempt to bowl a political googly at the BJP leaders during a debate in the state legislative assembly boomeranged. He came under fire from his own party colleagues and ended up apologising for it.

A quick apology from Shivakumar to "all Congressmen and I.N.D.I.A alliance leaders", coming just a few days after former Minister KN Rajanna faced the axe for expressing scepticism about Congress' campaign against alleged electoral irregularities, points to changing dynamics in Congress. Rajanna had not even questioned the party's campaign. All that he had stated was that Congress was in power in the state when electoral rolls for the 2024 Lok Sabha polls were prepared, and they should have been vigilant. But that was enough for the high command to act against him, especially given his penchant for controversies.

The party's high command appears to be sending a clear message to its leaders and cadres to adhere to what Leader of the Opposition in the Lok Sabha, Rahul Gandhi, says, or face action.

While the developments signal party central leaders' increasing assertiveness and close watch on the developments in Karnataka, they also reveal the delicate balance of power within the state Congress and factionalism.

Interestingly, Shivakumar expressed regret for singing the RSS anthem after returning from Bihar, where he joined Rahul Gandhi and other I.N.D.I.A bloc leaders in their campaign against what they term "vote chori". While Shivakumar admitted that I.N.D.I.A bloc leaders spoke to him about the developments, he claimed that none from the Congress central leadership broached the topic with him. However, AICC president Mallikarjun Kharge's remarks that Shivakumar should not have sung it (RSS anthem) and it is a closed chapter now indicated that the high command had not taken the development lightly.

A section of senior Congress leaders in the state escalated the issue, putting Shivakumar in a tight spot. Senior leader and MLC BK Hariprasad, PWD Minister Satish Jarkiholi and KN Rajanna openly disapproved of Shivakumar's act. While Jarkiholi spoke of bringing sensitive developments in the state to the notice of the high command, Hariprasad was more scathing in his attack.

It provided an opportunity for Shivakumar's detractors within the party to question his political ideology. On his part, Shivakumar painstakingly explained his loyalty to the party and, more importantly, the Gandhi family.

The development may have landed Shivakumar in an avoidable controversy, but the high command or the party cadre in general is unlikely to doubt his loyalty to the party or the Gandhi family. He has been a staunch Congressman since his college days and played a vital role in turning around the party's sagging fortunes in Karnataka, which gave a big boost to its prospects at the national level. Given the kind of value he brings to the party, the high command could have prodded him to put an end to the issue to avoid possible embarrassment that Rahul Gandhi may have to face when he campaigns with I.N.D.I.A bloc alliance partners.

While the Congress high command may not doubt Shivakumar's loyalty to the party, it still needs to reassure the alliance partners. Congress often portrays its 'Karnataka Model' in other states, and it cannot afford to lose what it perceives to be an advantage due to remarks that strike at the very core of the party's ideology. Perhaps that was underlined when Shivakumar mentioned I.N.D.I.A bloc leaders in his apology.

While the high command called it a closed chapter, it remains to be seen if his detractors will use it against him in the future. When the power balance is delicate, each side waits to make the most of the other's folly. It reveals the underlying tensions beneath the party's carefully maintained all-is-well image. It's a dynamic, complicated, and evolving situation.

Split wide open: Dasara invite to Banu divides netas

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka government's decision to invite International Booker Prize winner Banu Mushtaq to inaugurate the Mysuru Dasara festival has sparked intense debate. Chief Minister Siddaramaiah, defending the decision, said, "Dasara was celebrated when Hyder Ali and Tipu Sultan were there, when Mirza Ismail was Diwan of Mysore, and Dasara was also inaugurated by eminent writer and poet Nisar Ahmed in 2017. So what is the controversy over author Banu Mushtaq inaugurating the state festival?"

Former Rajya Sabha member and celebrated author L Hanumantayya termed the controversy "misguided and harmful to society". Expressing support for Mushtaq, he said, "Banu Mushtaq has brought honour to our land, and it is shameful that some people are raising unnecessary controversy over the Dasara invitation."

The writer emphasized the inclusive nature of Dasara festival, with musicians, wrestlers and artists being invited, regardless of caste, creed or religion. "If we are inviting people from diverse fields to celebrate our festival, it is only fitting that Banu Mushtaq is part of this grand occasion. We should not allow divisive forces to dictate the course of the festival."

Former Mysuru MP and BJP MLC Adagur Vishwanath hit out at former BJP MP Prathap Simha, who was critical of the author. "Banu Mushtaq has won the acclaimed Booker Prize, what have you won for your book?"

Mysuru royal family member Pramoda Devi Wadiyar waded into the row, saying, "For our family, Goddess Chamundi is like a spiritual mother. Worship at the temple has always been conducted as per Hindu religious traditions," she said. She expressed disappointment that the temple was being dragged into politics. "There has been too much politics over Dasara. It should not be stretched further," she said.

Take SC/ST atrocity cases seriously: Siddu to DCRE

CM says conviction rate in such cases much lower in Karnataka

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

"CASTE discrimination still exists and many weaker sections of society continue to face it. Such cases must be taken seriously and atrocities against them should be prevented, Chief Minister Siddaramaiah said on Saturday.

He was speaking at Raj Bhavan after participating in the President's Police Medal distribution ceremony.

"Directorate of Civil Rights Enforcement (DCRE) police stations have been established across the state. At a recent review meeting, I observed that the performance of these police stations has not been satisfactory. Officers must take this issue seriously so that the government's objective of providing security to people from weaker sections is fulfilled. Compared to other states, the conviction rate in atrocity cases involving the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes is much lower. Police must focus on this matter," Siddaramaiah said.

"Behind every service medal awarded today lies dedication, honesty and hard work of police personnel. Such achievements are possible only when service is rendered with concern for society. Preventing crimes in society is the shared duty of the government and police personnel. By adopting preventive measures, crimes can be prevented to an extent, he said.

"The role of police is vital in eliminating inequalities and ensuring the rights guaranteed under the Constitution. As Dr Ambedkar said, if power rests only in the hands of the strong, the lives of weaker sections become miserable. Therefore, police must curb atrocities against such sections," the CM said.

Home Minister G Parameshwara said, "For development to happen, society must remain peaceful. During the recent Global Investors' Meet, hundreds of companies from around the world pledged investments of more than 1,05,000 crore. The CM and the industries minister signed several agreements. For Karnataka to attract more than 10 lakh crore in investments means there is peace and stability in the state. The police department too has played a role in this," he said.

Governor Thaawarchand Gehlot distributed medals to 77 police officers, including Bengaluru City Police Commissioner Seemant Kumar Singh.

MA Saleem's appointment formalised

ENS @ Bengaluru

MA Saleem, who had been holding concurrent charge as the Director General and Inspector General of Police (DG & IGP), was on Saturday appointed by the Karnataka government as the full-time head of the State police force.

Saleem, who was serving as the Director General of Police (DGP), Criminal Investigation Department(CID), Special Units, and Economic Offences, was given additional charge as DG & IGP on May 21 after former police chief Alok Mohan retired.

A 1993-batch IPS officer, Saleem's appointment as DG & IGP was formalised on Saturday. With this, he has been relieved of his responsibilities as DGP, CID, creating a vacancy in that key post. Over his career, Saleem has served in 26 different roles. He is popularly known as "One-Way Saleem" for converting 140 roads in Bengaluru into one-way routes, a move that earned him both recognition and the nickname.

SOWJANYA CASE

Protect complainant: Activist to SIT

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Mangaluru

ACTIVIST Prasanna Ravi from Mangaluru on Saturday met Special Investigation Team (SIT) officials and sought protection to the witness-complainant after the investigation into the alleged mass burial case is complete as she claimed that he is a key witness in the Sowjanya rape and murder case. She said, "Sowjanya's mother Kusumavathi in her complaint to SIT has mentioned about the witness-complainant and his claims about Ravi Poojary. Evidence in the Sowjanya case has been destroyed and some witnesses have died. I have given the names of a few others linked to the case who have died (mysteriously). The witness-complainant should not meet the same fate," she claimed.

"The witness-complainant has claimed that Ravi Poojary was killed because he knew about the Sowjanya case. Let that angle be probed too. I had earlier appealed to the then state government to form an acquittal committee and punish officers who were at fault in investigating the Sowjanya case as directed by the CBI court. But it is still pending. If an acquittal committee is formed, the then investigating officer and other officials can be interrogated and we can have information on who destroyed evidence. I am confident CM Siddaramaiah will accept our demands. When the CBI court itself has given a report against officials who were at fault in the Sowjanya case, why can't we talk against them," she asked.

Ravi said she will file a complaint with the Belthangady police against those defaming Sowjanya's mother Kusumavathi. "DK SP Dr Arun K has said he will take action. I complained to the National Human Rights Commission when they visited here."

SIT takes the complainant for a mahazar of activist Jayanth's residence in Bengaluru on Saturday

COMPLAINANT BROUGHT TO BENGALURU

MANGALURU: The complainant in the alleged Dharmasthala mass burial case was taken to Bengaluru for mahazar (spot inspection) at activist Jayanth's rented house where he had stayed. Jayanth told media persons that he came in contact with the complainant five months ago and activist Girish Mattannavar had asked him to take him to a lawyer's office in Bengaluru. "I had to take him to the advocate and during that time, he had stayed at my rented house in Bengaluru. He had to go to the Supreme Court and I had accompanied him along with Sujatha Bhat and others. He had come with a bag and had a material (likely to be a skull) in it which was taken to Delhi to present it to the court and from there to Mangaluru to present the material before Dakshina Kannada SP. I am ready to face any probe. I do not know from where he got the skull," he told reporters. Meanwhile, a few former and present Gram Panchayat employees of Dharmasthala appeared before the SIT and recorded their statements. YouTuber Sameer MD also appeared before the Belthangady police and recorded his statement.

CANNOT FIX DEADLINE FOR PROBE: Dr G

BENGALURU: Karnataka Home Minister Dr G Parameshwara said on Saturday that they cannot fix any time limit for the Special Investigation Team (SIT) to complete the probe in the Dharmasthala case. Speaking to media persons in Bengaluru, the Home Minister said they cannot fix any time limit and have only told them to complete the probe early. The investigation may take the SIT into different direction and they cannot ask them to stop it, he said and added that they cannot fix time limit for investigation and it is for the SIT to decide. Till the time the government gets the probe report, they cannot say anything about the ongoing probe and it is all speculation, he said.

Wage revision for RTC employees will be done at earliest: Ramalinga

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Hiriyur (Chitradurga district)

KARNATAKA Transport Minister Ramalinga Reddy on Saturday said that wage revision for KSRTC, NWKRTC, KKRTC, and BMTC employees will be done at the earliest.

Addressing reporters on the sidelines of the inauguration of Hiriyur bus depot in Chitradurga district, Reddy said that the previous BJP government created "confusion and problems" in the department because of which employees are suffering now.

He said BJP MP and former CM Basavaraj Bommai and the then Transport Minister Sriramulu, who authorised wage revision in 2023, were supposed to order that the wage revision would come into effect retrospectively from January 1, 2021. "However, in the order, it was clearly mentioned that the wage revision was from March 17, 2023, and this created confusion; otherwise, employees would have gotten another wage revision by now. Wage revision is the only problem that is pending at present, and it will be solved amicably," Reddy said.

He said that there was misgovernance in KSRTC during the BJP regime. "In one month, salary was paid twice. However, it has been solved now," he added.

He further said that there was no recruitment for 7-8 years, which has also been resolved now. "No new buses were purchased. After the Congress came to power, we procured 5,200 buses. The body building work on 800 buses is still underway, and they will be handed over to their respective depots," he added.

Digitisation of revenue court proceedings, data mandatory

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE state government on Saturday made public the notification signed on August 29, reinstating the mandate to ensure all revenue court proceedings are digitised. Principal Secretary, Revenue Department, Rajendra Kumar Kataria, told The New Sunday Express that revenue courts are already following the practice and orders were issued to digitise the process, digitise the filing of processing and High Court directions but was not done. Due to this many complaints were coming.

Now a notification was issued on August 29, making it mandatory to ensure end-to-end digitisation.

The Revenue Court Case Monitoring Management System (RCCMMS) order stated that all applications should be filed online, the fee payment should be online and people should also view the details online. The signature of revenue officers should be online and there should be no physical movement of files. The revenue courts should also ensure that all court proceedings are digitally recorded and stored. Kataria said the government aims to digitise all 100 crore revenue records of A and B category properties by February 2026. So far 40 crore records have been digitised.

He said revenue secretariat office, offices of the DC, RC, taluk offices have been digitised. Work is on to digitise all tahsildar and village accountant offices. The aim of the exercise is to reduce public interface and corruption, he added.

Disruption has taken precedence over debate in Parliament: Rijiju

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE quality of Parliamentary debates in India has declined over the years with disruptions increasingly taking the place of meaningful discussions, Union Minister for Parliamentary Affairs and Minority Affairs Kiren Rijiju has said. He was addressing the advocates of the High Court of Karnataka on 'Parliamentary System in the Largest Democracy in the World' on Saturday.

"When I entered Parliament, leaders like Atal Bihari Vajpayee, Chandra Shekhar, George Fernandes, and Sushma Swaraj would engage in powerful debates. We, as young MPs, would listen and learn from them. Today, unfortunately, disruption has taken precedence over debate," the minister said.

Rijiju urged young parliamentarians to resist party instructions to disrupt proceedings. "Creating noise weakens democracy," he said. Rijiju noted that during the recent monsoon session, several important bills were passed without proper discussion because of repeated disruptions. These included the Online Gaming Bill, a constitutional amendment that requires ministers to step down if jailed for more than 30 days, reforms in mining laws, and a major bill on sports governance, he said. "The Online Gaming Bill, for example, will shape the future of our youth. Such laws should be debated thoroughly, but we had no choice but to push them through. I was not happy about this," he said.

Union Minister Kiren Rijiju being felicitated by Bengaluru Advocates Association president Vivek Subba Reddy, in Bengaluru on Saturday | EXPRESS

Calling India's democracy "unique," Rijiju said the responsibilities of Indian MPs are far greater than those in many other countries. "In the UK, an MP represents about 90,000 people. In India, one MP represents nearly 2.5 million people. Citizens approach us not just with policies but with personal problems such as medical help, education, land disputes. In reality, lawmaking is only a small part of our work," he said.

The minister recalled his 2004 parliamentary exchange in the UK, where he interacted with senior British MP Sir Patrick Cormack. "That experience showed me how the challenges faced by Indian lawmakers are a thousand times more intense than those in Western countries," Rijiju said.

Rijiju said that every organ of the state must function within its constitutional boundaries. "Encroachment creates unnecessary friction. Our Constitution is the largest in the world, but also the best. Protecting its spirit is our duty," he said.

UNION MIN HITS OUT AT RETIRED JUDGES FOR SPEAKING AGAINST GOVT

Bengaluru: UNION Minister for Parliamentary Affairs and Minority Affairs Kiren Rijiju criticised the trend of retired judges speaking against the government. Rijiju, who was addressing the Karnataka State Advocate Associa-tions' Conference, said the Indian judiciary has often been accused of being compromised, and witnessed insta-nces in the past that fuel such perceptions. "We have seen a recent case where a group of retired Supreme Court and High Court judges had come together against the Home Minister Amit Shah. Retired judges come up, sign statements together and give petitions, and speak against the government. But what purpose does it serve? When members of the judiciary engage in political tussles, it not only diminishes the dignity of the profession but also weakens faith in the institution," he said, indirectly arguing that retired judges should not raise opinions against the government. Rijiju's statement comes days later after 18 retired judges signed a joint statement against Shah over his remarks against Opposition vice-presidential candidate and former SC judge B Sudershan Reddy and 2011 Salwa Judum judgment. The retired judges had called Shah's comments "unfortu-nate" and a "prejudicial misinterpretation" of the 2011 Salwa Judum judgment, through which the Supreme Court disbanded the state-backed vigilante movement in Chhattisgarh. ENS

TEXTILE SECTOR IN LURCH?

US tariff may cost TN ₹34,642 cr in '25-26

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Chennai

GUIDANCE Tamil Nadu, the apex government body for investment promotion in the state, has pegged the potential loss for TN in 2025-26 due to the 50% US tariff, imposed by President Donald Trump, on imports across sectors at $3.93 billion (₹34,642 crore). Of this, the potential loss to textile industry, which is the worst-hit, could be $ 1.62 billion (₹14,280 crore), a release from the state government said on Saturday.

Citing these concerns, Chief Minister MK Stalin has once again appealed to the Union Government to swiftly act to protect industries dependent on exports, particularly the textiles sector. The release on Saturday also pointed out that while US makes up 20% of the total value of India's exports, the US accounted for 32% of the value of exports from Tamil Nadu in 2024-25.

The job losses faced by various industries, including textiles, diamonds and jewellery, machineries, and auto parts, could range from 13% to 36% of the existing workforce in these industries. Highlighting that Tamil Nadu accounted for 28% of the country's textile exports, the release said Tiruppur, which has led the industry for decades, alone contributed to roughly ₹40,000 crore of foreign exchange earnings last year.

Stalin on Saturday left for Germany and the United Kingdom on a week-long trip to attract new investments and ink business agreements for Tamil Nadu.

Odisha shrimp farmers stare at uncertain future

Bhubaneswar: Shrimp farmers across coastal districts in Odisha are staring at a huge loss and uncertain future after the United States imposed a steep 50% tariff on shrimp imports. As the state exports marine products worth over Rs 4,700 crore to different countries, including around Rs 2,000 crore to the US markets, the move is set to cripple the aquaculture sector and disrupt the entire value chain. Odisha is the fifth-largest vannamei shrimp producer in the country with annual production of over 30,000 tonnes. While the exporters were paying nearly 9-10% as anti-dumping and countervailing duty, the additional 50% tariff will take it up to 60% making the products uncompetitive in US markets.

Robust economic growth will help MSMEs: KASSIA

Bengaluru: The Karnataka Small Scale Industries Association (KASSIA) welcomed India's robust economic performance, with real Gross Domestic Product (GDP) growing by 7.8% in the first quarter of FY 2025–26. KASSIA said that a strong overall economy creates higher demand for goods and services, opens up new market opportunities, and improves investor confidence, which in turn directly benefits Micro, Small, and Medium Enterprises (MSMEs). BR Ganesh Rao, president of KASSIA, said that with supportive policies, improved credit access, and timely reforms, MSMEs can scale their contribution to inclusive growth. However, challenges such as rising input costs, delayed payments, etc continue to require urgent attention. ENS

T'gana to table bill to ensure 42% quota for BCs

Hyderabad: The Telangana government on Saturday announced its decision to introduce a bill in the assembly on August 31 to facilitate 42%reservation to Backward Classes in local body polls by amending a legislation enacted in 2018. Briefing reporters after a meeting of the state cabinet, Backward Classes Welfare Minister Ponnam Prabhakar termed the Panchayat Raj bill passed in 2018 during the previous BRS regime as a "noose" which caps total reservations for SCs, STs and BCs in local bodies at 50%. The government had earlier issued an ordinance to amend the 2018 Act which was sent to the President by Governor Jishnu Dev Varma. ENS

REGISTRATION FEE IN KARNATAKA LOWER THAN OTHER STATES: OFFICIAL

MUNISH Moudgil said this was done as the registration fee in Karnataka is lower than that of other states. It is 2% in Tamil Nadu, Kerala and Telangana (rural). The overall registration cost in Karnataka is also less. It is 6.65% in Karnataka while in Tamil Nadu it is 9%, Kerala 10% and 7.5% in Andhra Pradesh and Telangana.

Mullai Muhilan MP, Inspector General of Registration and Commissioner of Stamps and Registration, said, "The last revision in registration fee was done in 2013, when it was reduced from 2% to 1%. Now it has been brought back to its old rates and the other slabs have not been changed." However, experts, property owners and citizens have criticised the decision of the state government and said that this is exposing the financial situation of the government.

FKCCI Chairman G Balakrishna said: "The hike in registration fee will have an adverse impact on the state's development. Though the government says it is just 1%, but in cash it is very high. Also, while there will not be an immediate impact, subsequent dip in registrations will be seen as people will start to compare with other states. The present cost of registering a property in Karnataka will now increase from 6.65% to 7.65%, which is a huge impact on property owners."

Vikram Rai, president of Bangalore Apartments Federation, said, "Now, a property owner pays 40-45% above the property cost. This is because of various charges- taxes, cess, registration fee, permission, etc. This is nearly half of the property cost, now any additional charge will be in place. The real estate value is very high in Bengaluru and this hike will also give scope to black transactions as people will start to undervalue their properties to save charges," he said.

Swathi B, a property owner, said: "Already the government has increased water tariff, electricity charges, fire NOC, milk charges, commercial vehicle registration cost and we also have to pay to convert khata document to e-khata. Now doubling the registration cost will further escalate the sky-high property charges in Bengaluru."

Govt looting Kannadigas at every step, says BJP

Bengaluru: BJP hit out at the Karnataka government over the increase in the property registration fee. "When Rahul Gandhi, CM Siddaramaiah and Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar were talking about so-called Karnataka model, this is what it really means - looting Kannadigas at every step," said LoP R Ashoka on Saturday. "After hiking prices of water, milk, power, petrol, diesel, bus fare, Metro fare, property tax, stamp duty and every essential service, now they have targeted home buyers and the real estate sector. People will give a befitting reply," he posted on X. BJP state president BY Vijayendra said price hikes and corruption have become the daily guarantee of the Congress government. ENS

TARIFF THREAT: CALL CMs' MEET TO PROPEL REFORMS

THE WhatsApp Universe is caught in a spicy tizzy. Last year, the forwards industry was busy propagating prayers and a havan for Donald Trump's re-election and a boycott of Chinese goods. This week, as the India-China détente unfolds in Tianjin, touch-screen warriors trashing Trump are in a bind whether Chinese goods are kosher or not.

Beyond the outrage and the compulsions of binary jingoism, the fact is that the answer to the "unfair, unjustified and unreasonable" tariffs imposed by Trump is strengthening the domestic economy. The chasm between reality and potential is littered with systemic burdens imposed on the economy. Making India competitive demands wholesale reforms—of laws, taxation, permissions and compliances.

The tariff threat merits a national response—for a meeting of chief ministers chaired by the Prime Minister to put reforms on the clock. Why the states? As N T Rama Rao said in the 1980s, 'Every square mile of India is ruled by states.' The 1991 reforms dismantled licence raj, but left a permission raj intact. The power to liberate factor productivity for boosting growth is vested with the states.

The idea is wrapped in cautionary caveats. It cannot be yet another Vigyan Bhavan photo-op. India must leverage the scale of its economy. What is it that states do to accelerate the virtuous cycle of investment, jobs, income and consumption growth? Typically, the discourse gets wrapped in performative platitudes. The agenda has to be prebaked and must be about trimming the costs imposed on the economy.

The political class has invested in vote guarantees. Ergo, how about the states presenting their ideas and three changes they guarantee to usher in? For instance Tamil Nadu, along with Karnataka and Gujarat, is able to compete for global investments. Can these states present and share their best practices?

The rigidities in labour laws corrode the promise of enlarging manufacturing's share in GDP to 25 percent. In 2015, the Centre held consultations with states. By 2020, parliament modified laws on wages, industrial relations, safety and social security. In 2025, the new code is stranded as states are yet to adopt it and frame rules. Will states agree on a deadline to adopt and frame rules?

Enterprises wade through a plethora of registrations to set up business. Will states collaborate and agree on a common interoperable number visible across ministries? Entrepreneurs must get between 30 and 110 clearances to set up a manufacturing unit, a hotel, hospital or a power plant. Once set up, the businesses must survive regulatory cholesterol of thousands of compliances and the swamp of inspector raj. How about doing a flow chart of the permissions for a new national template?

Trump's tariffs threaten the very viability of exporters and livelihoods of employees producing shrimps, gems and jewellery, garments. Perhaps states such as Andhra Pradesh, Rajasthan, Tamil Nadu, Uttar Pradesh and Rajasthan have ideas and can present a plan to ensure their survival.

India is a major exporter of solar equipment to the US and tariffs threaten its viability. The complexities of supply chain and tariffs could render them a casualty. A TeamLease Regtech report reveals renewable energy projects require 799 unique compliances. States can promise to clean up the regulatory mess in the domestic rooftop solar adoption to enable their survival.

There is much hope resting on the promise of 'next generation' GST reforms to be defined at the GST Council meeting in September. There are murmurs of loss of revenue—even if GST is often used as an 'MSP' for governments to fund populism. Can states agree on minimum definitions—redress the ills of an inverted duty structure where inputs are charged higher than the output? Must GST on yarn be more than fabric and garment?

Sure, programmes require funds. States are vested with surplus lands and can follow asset monetisation plans. There is much debate about central public sector undertakings and little about the state of state PSUs. How about a white paper on which state owns what and how well or poorly they are doing? The Comptroller and Auditor General's reports reveal the rot and erosion of public wealth. Is this sustainable?

The emerging spectre of disruptions underlines the need for funding skilling and re-skilling. Nobody quite knows the quantum of funds lying in the labour welfare funds managed by states. Can states reveal how these are being used? A recent information request revealed that cess worth ₹70,744.16 crore collected from workers and employers for the welfare of construction workers is lying unused with the states. Worse, these funds are being diverted for other populist purposes.

Social media is replete with counsel on crisis-driven change. Indeed, my 2012 book Accidental India chronicles the phenomenon of India's crisis-led transformation. There is an entrenched belief that Delhi holds the key for change. The necessary and sufficient conditions for change depend on context. The agenda must focus on equipping India's economy to sustain in a world where the rule-based order is unravelling into uncertainty.

India's lament for decades is not about what could not be done, but what could be done and yet was not. The aspiration for a Viksit Bharat rests on what is done now. So that GenNext can croon, like the Huntrix girls in 'KPop Demon Hunters', "When darkness meets light, this is what it sounds like."

POWER & POLITICS

PRABHU CHAWLA

THERE are voices that wound and voices that heal. Some speak merely to vilify, while others attempt to speak to the soul of a nation. Mohan Bhagwat, the sarsanghchalak of the Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh, belongs to the latter category—an unassuming paterfamilias whose quiet humour and classy candour reflect the organisation's long-cultivated ethos: restraint, rootedness, and an unbroken belief in Bharat's historic cultural continuity.

Last week, his day-long lecture series at the centenary celebrations of the RSS at New Delhi's Vigyan Bhawan carried a symbolic weight: a reminder that the RSS, founded in 1925 by Keshav Baliram Hedgewar, is not just a social experiment, but a cultural force preparing for its second century. For the first time in its history, the RSS chief fielded over 200 audience questions on language, Hinduism, secrecy, population, technology, and caste reservations—that he supports reservations until communities themselves feel otherwise, and that 'Hindu' is someone who identifies as Bharatiya and is rooted in Indian culture. One point is not negotiable: infiltrators must be deported. All regional languages, he said, are national languages, while imposing a foreign one is unacceptable.

He threw open RSS offices and shakhas to critics, urging them to see firsthand, instead of clinging to prejudice. In a pointed move against what he called a leftist-driven anti-RSS ecosystem, Bhagwat even suggested "Hum do, hamari teen"—not "do"—as a liberal, but culturally conscious approach to population policy. The message was blunt: the Sangh is not an enigma. Step inside and see it for yourself—or abandon the manufactured narrative.

The timing of this outreach is critical, as it coincides with a sustained political assault led by Rahul Gandhi, whose critiques have intensified since 2018. Gandhi has repeatedly accused the RSS of undermining India's pluralistic ethos, alleging it seeks to impose a homogenous Hindu identity and exerts undue influence over the BJP. His remarks, including calling the RSS a "threat to India's secular fabric", have galvanised opposition narratives, particularly during election cycles.

While earlier criticisms of the RSS by Congress leaders like Jawaharlal Nehru and Indira Gandhi eventually waned, Rahul Gandhi's persistent tirade has prompted the RSS to adopt a proactive, confrontational approach. By inviting opposition leaders and engaging with minority communities, including Muslims, Christians, and Buddhists, the RSS aims to dismantle the perception of exclusivity.

PTI

The scale and ambition of this the flagship event—100 Years of Sangh Yatra: New Horizons—saw about 2,000 participants including diplomats from over 50 countries such as the US, UK, Germany, Japan, Saudi Arabia, and UAE, whose presence underscores international interest about the RSS's role in shaping India's ideological currents as a global power. The BJP allies were conspicuously present. So were some Congress leaders, but a no-show by Rahul Gandhi showed an unwillingness to debate than accuse.

The exercise covered 17 thematic categories, from youth entrepreneurship to national security and cultural identity, aiming to project the RSS as a broad-based, inclusive force to foster grassroots connections, ensuring that the message of unity permeates rural and urban India alike.

For decades, the RSS remained an inward-looking cadre movement, focused on shakhas and discipline. Now, it presents itself as an interlocutor in the global marketplace of ideas. Bhagwat's formulation of 'belongingness' as the Sangh's core principle recalls an older Indian philosophical tradition: that the self is not isolated, but always situated within a larger whole. He draws from the 'Vasudhaiva kutumbakam' trope—Hindu thought is not sectarian, but universal. He framed Hinduism as rooted in inclusivity and mutual respect across communities. History shows that institutions evolve under pressure. Just as Ashoka, after the Kalinga war, redirected imperial power into a moral enterprise, the RSS is recasting itself as a reconciliatory force, not a polarising one.

RSS articulation of 'Panch Parivartan'—social harmony, family enlightenment, environmental awareness, selfhood, and citizen's duties—resonates with older Indian frameworks of dharma. Unlike Western political categories that separate religion, state, and society, Indian philosophical tradition is the ethical, social, and cosmic as an interwoven entity. Bhagwat's emphasis on environmental stewardship reframes climate change not merely as a technocratic challenge, but as a dharmic responsibility in continuity with Vedic injunctions about harmony between purusha (human) and prakriti (nature).

Bhagwat's defence of tariffs as a means of protecting Indian farmers was not couched in policy language, but linked to the principle of swa—the autonomous refusal to surrender to alien systems of thought or commerce. This nationalist vocabulary situates trade debates in the same lineage as swadeshi, a reminder that economic sovereignty has always been central to Indian nationalism. Yet, for all its philosophical appeals, the RSS remains under ideological scrutiny of its 'woke' and 'secular' foes. Critics, including Rahul Gandhi, have portrayed the RSS as a hardline Hindu nationalist organisation that marginalises minorities and promotes a monolithic cultural agenda.

Bhagwat's words carry weight not just for the movement, but for India itself. If its first century, the RSS was about consolidation and control; its second may well be about interpretation and dialogue. In a world where civilisational states are reasserting themselves—China with Confucianism, Russia with Orthodoxy, the Islamic world with pan-umma narratives—the RSS seeks to position Hinduism not as dogma but as a global philosophy of belongingness. Ultimately, the philosophical question the RSS poses is: can a cultural identity anchor a modern nation-state without erasing its plural voices? History teaches that civilisations endure when they can absorb contradiction, not when they erase it. If the RSS can sustain dialogue with its critics, engage minorities as participants, and solve its own internal fissures of caste and language, it could transform itself into a truly integrative force.

In this sense, the centenary campaign is not just an organisational exercise, but a meditative experiment. It asks whether the word 'Hindu'—which once meant simply the people of the Indus—can be rearticulated as a universal ethos of kinship in the 21st century. As the RSS moves into its second century, it should sustain its inclusive approach, ensuring minority voices are not just invited but actively heard. It must address internal issues about caste and regionalism, and foster a truly pan-Indian identity. By leveraging digital platforms, the organisation can amplify its message to younger audiences, countering misinformation while promoting its vision of 'belongingness'.

Finally, it should engage constructively with critics like Rahul Gandhi, using dialogue to bridge divides rather than entrench them. When Bhagwat threw open RSS offices and shakhas for others to see, the message was about transparency—we are Bharat and have nothing to hide. Step inside and see for yourself, or abandon the manufactured narrative. The true measure of this centenary is whether a villager in Bastar, a student in Aligarh, or a worker in Chennai feels fraternity together. For India, the question endures: can we build unity without erasing difference? The RSS's response will shape not just its own future, but the destiny of Bharat itself.

RAMESH Sharma's 1986 film, New Delhi Times, is often cited as the best Hindi film on media and on the dubious linkages between politics, business, crime and corruption. The story of an honest journalist, Vikas Pande (Shashi Kapoor) who finds himself in an ethical quandary for having been used unawares by the shady political establishment, New Delhi Times won three national awards—for the best debut film, actor and cinematographer. However, it proved too hot to handle in its times by the distributors and Doordarshan for its portrayal of political assassination and instigation of riots, leading to several disruptions to its screenings.

Its recent official reappearance online has also proven to be contentious because of the voluntary censorship of content by the platform shemaroome.com, that too without having taken the filmmaker into confidence. Another official print on the YouTube channel called Kapoors of Bollywood has since been taken down.

The self-censorship can be interpreted as a sign of the film's continued pertinence in speaking truth to power. The touchiness highlights the fact that little has changed since the 1980s when it comes to locating threat perception in our popular culture. Most weirdly, some changes appear to have been done to supposedly bring it on par with the current finesse in image-making and HD quality visuals, but make it lose out cloddishly on its narrative integrity and soul.

While the original was 121 minutes long, the new version streaming online has a run time of 114 minutes. "It shows an absence of moral compass. It's unfair to me," says Sharma of the arbitrary deletion of seven to eight minutes of the film and the random, inexplicable meddling with the technical and artistic aspects in the guise of remastering.

He has unlikely company in Aanand L Rai, whose 2013 hit Raanjhanaa also found itself getting maimed recently at the hands of producer-distributor Eros International with everyone's favourite new toy, artificial intelligence. For the re-release of the film's Tamil-dubbed version, Ambikapathy, Eros altered the climax, using AI to generate an alternative happy ending where the hero Kundan (Dhanush) survives, drawing criticism from both the director and Dhanush.

Rai called it "unauthorised" for not taking him or the creative team into confidence. Calling it reckless and disrespectful in an Instagram post, Rai wrote: "To cloak a film's emotional legacy in a synthetic cape without consent is not a creative act. It's an abject betrayal of everything we built."

New Delhi Times* and Raanjhanaa were altered by the films' rights-holders before their official re-release. The original creative teams were not even consulted. It raises questions of copyright and artistic fidelity

Dhanush felt that the alteration had set a bad precedent by "stripping the film of its very soul". Such a problematic use of AI wouldn't just threaten the integrity of storytelling in the present and the future but will be a danger to the past, the "legacy of cinema" as well.

Eros contends it's legally on the right side and that its attempt was not to denigrate the original but to use the new technology to offer a fresh experience to a new audience, and that it'd be similarly reintroducing other classics as well.

Beyond the issues of censorship, politics, technology and sheer callousness, these two examples raise the vital question of the lopsidedness in the ownership of a cinematic creation. While, the makers—the director, writer, actors, technicians—appear to have no say in something that they themselves conceived and created, the copyright-owning producers/distributors are merrily meddling away on their own. Why should commercial rights lend them an upper hand creatively? What moral rights do artists have to prevent their work from being mutilated? Do they have protection under copyright law, especially in the digital landscape?

"Once we have made it, we have no say in our work. We are at the mercy of the rights owners," says Sharma. "Many producers may not have even seen their own films."

Perhaps it's time for the creative community to take a leaf out of Javed Akhtar's book. He lobbied for the Copyright (Amendment) Act 2012 for rights to royalties from the commercial use of their work for the lyricists and composers beyond the fiefdom of the music companies and producers.

It's ironic that, in retrospect, Sharma feels that bad, pirated prints of his film are more loyal to his vision than the remastered official one.

The sight of children playing would also motivate the elderly to do their walking. Today, you can't find any children near that temple compound playing, nor the elderly walking. Most of them are glued to their mobiles, laptops or TV. On this, no government policy can help. It's for the individual to decide.

Belgian court turns down Choksi's bail plea ahead of extradition hearing

MUKESH RANJAN @ New Delhi

IN a major setback to fugitive diamond trader Mehul Choksi, his bail plea has again been turned down by a court of appeal in Belgium just ahead of his extradition hearing in that country, officials in the Indian agencies following up the matter said on Saturday.

Choksi is wanted in India by probe agencies – the Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) and the Enforcement Directorate – in a case relating to over ₹6,300-crore alleged fraud in the Punjab National Bank (PNB).

According to officials, the court rejected the appeal on strong reasons conveyed by the CBI to the Belgian prosecution authorities that Choksi had escaped from many jurisdictions earlier as well to evade legal proceedings and may flee to another country if let out on bail.

In April this year Choksi was arrested in Belgium following an extradition request sent by the CBI, they said, adding that his earlier bail application, heard by the Court of Cassation in Belgium, was also rejected.

Choksi filed another bail application on August 22 and offered to be under house arrest and remain under surveillance at home, but the court of appeal rejected it earlier this week, the officials said.

The arguments as part of the extradition hearing against of 66-year-old Choksi, the owner of Gitanjali Group, would be taken up in a court in Belgium in mid-September, they said, adding that the CBI is going to assist the Belgian prosecution authorities in putting forth a strong case to send him back to India to face trial in the cases against him.

Choksi and his nephew Nirav Modi are wanted in the ₹13,000 crore PNB bank fraud case that they allegedly orchestrated through fraudulent Letters of Undertaking in connivance with some bank officials at the Brady House branch in Mumbai.

Modi, declared a fugitive economic offender, has also been lodged in a London jail.

Modi, Zelenskyy discuss Ukraine peace process

Telephone call comes ahead of PM's meeting with Putin in China

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi held a telephone conversation on Saturday evening with Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskyy, discussing the latest developments in Ukraine's ongoing conflict with Russia. The call came just one day before Modi is scheduled to meet Russian President Vladimir Putin on the sidelines of the Shanghai Cooperation Organisation (SCO) summit in Tianjin, China . Modi and Putin are also expected to have a detailed bilateral meeting during the course of the summit.

According to an official readout, President Zelenskyy shared his perspective on the recent developments related to Ukraine. "Prime Minister thanked President Zelenskyy and reaffirmed India's steadfast and consistent position for peaceful settlement of the conflict and support for efforts aimed at earliest restoration of peace. PM reiterated India's commitment to extend all possible support in this regard," the release said.

The leaders also reviewed progress in the India-Ukraine bilateral partnership and discussed ways to further enhance cooperation in all areas of mutual interest.

Following the call, Prime Minister Modi expressed India's long-standing position on the conflict, reaffirming support for a peaceful resolution. "India extends full support to all efforts in this direction," Modi posted on X . Zelenskyy echoed Modi's sentiment, calling the discussion "productive and important." He said that that he had updated the Indian Prime Minister about his recent talks with US President Donald Trump in Washington, where the discussion focused on potential steps toward peace. "Ukraine reaffirmed its readiness for a meeting with the head of Russia," Zelenskyy added in his X post.

The timing of the call is particularly significant, as Modi's upcoming meeting with Putin could influence India's diplomatic stance in the ongoing conflict for a far and lasting peace process.

The Ukrainian President also condemned recent Russian airstrikes on Ukrainian civilians, which he said underscored Moscow's unwillingness to engage in diplomatic efforts. "Russia should have been preparing for diplomacy, but instead, they have continued their attacks on civilian targets," Zelenskyy remarked.

PETER NAVARRO

CONTROVERSY'S CHILD AND MAGA'S ECONOMIC CRUSADER

JAYANTH JACOB

MANDAR PARDIKAR

PETER Navarro has never been mistaken for a consensus builder. A Harvard-trained economist turned economic street-fighter, he's made a career out of picking fights against markets, against allies, and often, against reality.

Once a fringe academic raging against globalisation, Navarro is now cemented in Donald Trump's second-term White House as both trusted warrior and ideological bulldozer.

While China has long been Navarro's chosen villain, he's now training his firepower on a new target, India.

And he's gone nuclear. In recent weeks, he's accused New Delhi of financing Vladimir Putin's "war," calling India the "Maharaja of tariffs" and a "laundromat for the Kremlin." He alleges that India's continued Russian oil imports are propping up the war machine in Ukraine and shifting the financial burden onto American taxpayers. "This isn't neutrality," Navarro said. "It's war profiteering under another name."

India's trade policy, according to Navarro, is a double insult: sky-high tariffs on US. goods combined with opportunistic profiteering from discounted Russian oil. "They cheat us on trade," he said. "They have massive tariffs and still expect access to our markets." In Navarro's world, that makes India a threat. Diplomats squirmed. MAGA loyalists cheered. This is Navarro unleashed, abrasive, ideological, and exactly where Trump wants him.

Navarro's unlikely rise into Trump's inner circle reads like political folklore. In 2011, he noticed his book 'The Coming China Wars' listed on a blog as one of Trump's favorite reads. He sent a thank-you note. Trump replied. The correspondence kicked off a years-long courtship. By 2016, Jared Kushner brought him into the campaign after reading 'Death by China'. From there, Navarro became the brain behind Trump's tariff crusade.

During Trump's first term, Navarro was both everywhere and nowhere-constantly in the room, yet always a target. Treasury secretaries, economists, and chiefs of staff all tried to marginalise him. They failed.

Trump didn't care if Navarro was right or wrong. He cared that Navarro never stopped swinging. And fight he did. Against free trade. Against allies. Against mainstream economic orthodoxy. When headlines softened Trump's image on tariffs, Navarro would go on television and torch any notion of compromise.

That loyalty deepened after the 2020 election. Navarro aggressively pushed the "Green Bay Sweep," a fantasy plan to overturn the results. When subpoenaed by Congress, he refused to comply and was convicted of contempt.

He served time in a Florida federal prison. Trump wasn't bothered. "He went to jail for me," Trump reportedly said.

Even behind bars, Navarro stayed on mission. He used the time to write The New MAGA Deal, a sweeping economic playbook for Trump's return. The book outlines an "iron triangle" of protectionism, industrial revival, and nationalist foreign policy. India features heavily as a supposed saboteur of American interests.

NEWSMAKER

Why target India and not China, which imports more Russian oil? Peter Navarro has an answer: "We already have over 50% tariffs on China. We don't want to hurt ourselves." Critics call it selective outrage, while others see it as ideological scapegoating as Washington is getting cautious about going all out against China.

Navarro's views, once dismissed as fringe, have evolved into Trump-era policy. His apocalyptic books and bizarre academic ethics—like citing a fictional trade expert, "Ron Vara" (an anagram of himself) raised eyebrows. But Navarro thrives on carefully chosen chaos. Now 75, he's relentless, roaming the White House in gym clothes, always scheming.

His focus on India isn't incidental. Navarro believes India's actions prolong war, not peace, and that profit drives their oil imports. Whether his scorched-earth tactics will shift US trade policy or alienate India remains to be seen, but for now, his target is clear.

Techtonic shift in India and Japan ties after PM's visit

Modi takes bullet train to Sendai with Shigeru Ishiba

Modi, accompanied by his Japanese counterpart Shigeru Ishiba, travelled by bullet train to the city, marking a symbolic and productive end to his trip, focused on elevating India-Japan ties in several key sectors.

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi's two-day visit to Japan reached its culmination on Saturday with a visit to a semiconductor plant in Sendai, Miyagi Prefecture, highlighting India's growing interest in deepening technological collaboration with Japan. Modi, accompanied by his Japanese counterpart Shigeru Ishiba, travelled by bullet train to the city, marking a symbolic and productive end to his trip, focused on elevating India-Japan ties in several key sectors.

The highlight of the visit was the tour of Tokyo Electron Miyagi Ltd (TEL Miyagi), a major player in the semiconductor industry. During the visit, Modi was briefed on TEL's advanced manufacturing capabilities, its role in the global semiconductor supply chain, and its plans to expand collaborations with India.

In his address, Modi emphasised the importance of strengthening cooperation between India and Japan in the semiconductor sector. He said, "India and Japan share a long history of cooperation, and today, we are taking this partnership to new heights, particularly in technology and innovation." The visit to TEL Miyagi not only reaffirmed both countries' commitment to enhancing ties in the semiconductor field but also served as a practical example of the potential for collaboration in semiconductor fabrication, testing, and supply chain development.

Modi and Ishiba, in their discussions, emphasised the strategic nature of their cooperation, particularly in the context of the global demand for semiconductors. India, with its rapidly developing tech sector, and Japan, a leader in semiconductor technology, are well-positioned to create resilient and secure supply chains. The two leaders also highlighted their commitment to the India-Japan Semiconductor Supply Chain Partnership, aiming to fortify both nations' roles in the global tech ecosystem. The two leaders launched the State-Prefecture Partnership

Initiative, aimed at fostering more frequent exchanges between Indian states and Japanese prefectures.

'Resounding response to pessimists like Rahul': BJP after strong eco growth

PARVEZ SULTAN @ New Delhi

THE Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) launched a sharp attack against Congress leader Rahul Gandhi on Saturday, following India's stronger-than-expected economic growth. The recent data said that the Indian economy expanded by 7.8% in the first quarter of the year, highest in five quarters, despite global challenges such as US tariffs.

The impressive GDP growth, largely driven by strong performance in the agricultural sector, prompted BJP leaders to criticise Gandhi, who had recently labelled the Indian economy as "dead." Union Agriculture Minister Shivraj Chouhan described the GDP data as a "hardest slap of reality" for Gandhi, saying, "Those who called it a 'dead economy' must now realise that India is a 'long live economy', driven by the sweat of farmers, the innovation of scientists, and the resilience of 140 crore Indians."

Chouhan also praised Prime Minister Narendra Modi's leadership, asserting that India is on its path to becoming a fully self-reliant and developed nation.

Union Minister Piyush Goyal echoed these sentiments, calling the growth a "resounding response" to pessimists like Gandhi. He emphasised that India's future is bright, with exports expected to rise even further this year.

"India is full of resilience, confidence and is raring to continue to be the fastest growing economy for the next 22 years. India will continue to power on. Our exports will continue to grow, we will do higher exports this year than last year and the future is extremely bright," Goyal said on the sidelines of an event in Mumbai.

BJP leaders also took to social media to criticise Gandhi. Amit Malviya, head of the BJP's IT cell, posted, "For the acerbic, delusional, frustrated Rahul Gandhi, the latest GDP numbers are the hardest slap of reality." He added that the 7.8% growth shows India's resilience and continued success, positioning it as one of the fastest-growing economies globally.

United show as MPs bat for women health forum

KAVITA BAJELI-DATT @ New Delhi

Women's health priority

The main aim of the forum, which has onboarded eight legislators from seven political parties, is to make women's health a policy priority, supported by research, advocacy and consensus. It will also push for HPV vaccine.

INDIA now has its first-ever intra-party parliamentarians' forum on women's health, which will advocate for policies on women's health, including sexual and reproductive health, that are often overlooked and underfunded, and receive insufficient attention in political and policy discussions.

The main aim of the forum, which has onboarded eight legislators from seven political parties, is to make women's health a policy priority, supported by research, advocacy and consensus.

Among the main agenda items of the forum, which will kick-start its operations during the winter session of the parliament, is to push for the inclusion of the HPV vaccine for cervical cancer, the second most common cancer in India, in the Universal Immunisation Programme (UIP).

Speaking with this paper, Dr. T. Sumathy, DMK MP from Chennai South, Tamil Nadu, said: "Women's health never gets priority inside or outside parliament. It has been treated as a secondary concern in our policy priorities, even though it underpins not just individual well-being but the health of our families, communities, and economy."

Welcoming the formation of a parliamentarian Forum, launched by the non-profit FRIDA Health, a women's health advocacy lab, she said their immediate goal for the winter session of parliament is to hold policy discussions on the nationwide inclusion of cervical cancer vaccine in the UIP; menstrual leaves for girls and women, and gender-based budgeting.

"We plan to take up in the winter session of the parliament, the national launch of cervical cancer vaccine, which has been rolled out in a few states, including Tamil Nadu. We want a discussion on adopting the successful models of these states in rolling out the HPV vaccine throughout the country."

The Union Budget 2024 prioritised the phased introduction of the cervical vaccine, with the National Technical Advisory Group on Immunisation recommending its inclusion in the UIP for girls aged 9-14 years. The other states where this vaccination has been launched are Sikkim and Bihar. India has reported over 80,000 cervical cancer cases in 2023-24.

On the issue of menstrual leaves, one of the provisions under the draft Menstrual Hygiene Policy, which advocates for a three-day leave for menstruating individuals in workplaces, the parliamentarian said they want an open discussion where the pros and cons are discussed.

The DMK MP is among the eight MPs who comprise the Forum. The others are Dr. Maddila Gurumoorthy (YSRCP, Andhra Pradesh), KR Suresh Reddy (BRS, Telangana), Vishal Patil (Independent, Maharashtra), Dr. Fauzia Khan (NCP, Maharashtra), Pradyut Bordoloi (Congress, Assam), Sulata Deo (BJD, Odisha), and Jothimani S. (Congress, Tamil Nadu).

"The parliament needs to discuss and come out with policies that focus on women's health, from their reproductive rights to their mental health. These issuesoften remain under-addressed in our policy conversations. I believe it is my duty to amplify these voices in parliament and to work collectively, beyond party lines, for a healthier and more equitable future for women across our country," said Dr Sumathy.

Safety violations trigger rise in road accident deaths: Centre

PARVEZ SULTAN @ New Delhi

A new report from the Ministry of Road Transport and Highways (MoRTH) paints a troubling picture of road safety in India. The number of road accidents in 2023 increased by 4.2%, with over 4.8 lakh incidents resulting in 1.72 lakh fatalities. Worryingly, 41% of the victims were not wearing safety devices—helmets for two-wheeler riders and seat belts for car occupants.

Among the fatalities, 54,568 were two-wheeler riders who were not wearing helmets, while 16,025 car passengers were not buckled up. On average, 20 people lost their lives every hour due to road accidents in the country.

Tamil Nadu continued to top the list with the highest number of accidents—20,582—marking its sixth consecutive year in this unfortunate position. Uttar Pradesh followed with 15,184 accidents, and Madhya Pradesh came in third with 14,561. Other states like Karnataka and Maharashtra reported 14,270 and 10,881 accidents, respectively.

The data also highlights the alarming trend of speeding. Over 72% of accidents and fatalities in 2023 were attributed to over-speeding, marking it as the leading cause of road accidents and deaths. Other contributing factors included drunken driving, running red lights, and mobile phone usage while driving.

In terms of accident types, "hit from behind" incidents led the pack, accounting for 21% of all accidents, followed by "hit and run" and "head-on collisions" at 17% and 15%, respectively.

National Highways (NH) were particularly hazardous, with 31.2% of all accidents occurring on these roads. This also accounted for 35.8% of the total fatalities. State Highways and other roads followed with 22% and 46.8% of accidents, respectively.

While some traffic violations saw a decline in both accidents and fatalities compared to 2022, there was a 3.6% increase in incidents involving wrong-side driving, and fatalities in these categories rose by 30%.

The MoRTH report serves as a stark reminder of the ongoing challenges in road safety, and calls for the need for stricter enforcement of safety measures.

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

THE flood situation in Punjab shows no signs of relief, with 24 lives lost so far. Approximately 1,018 villages remain affected, and standing crops across 1.51 lakh acres have been inundated in nine districts of Punjab owing to the overflowing Ravi, Beas, and Sutluj. A total of 11,330 people have been rescued, and 4,711 evacuated and relocated to safer places.

Both the BJP and Congress have demanded a special relief package from the Centre. The state has also suffered huge financial losses due to crop damage and livestock loss. According to reports from the district headquarters, 16,632 hectares of land have been affected in Fazilka, 10,806 hectares in Ferozepur, 11,620 hectares in Kapurthala, 7,000 hectares in Pathankot, 9,928 hectares in Tarn Taran, and 5,287 hectares in Hoshiarpur.

Currently, out of 87 relief camps, set up in flood-affected areas, 77 are fully functional, providing shelter to 4,729 people.

6,000 Manimahesh Yatra pilgrims evacuated

As 10 pilgrims have died and eight others are missing in the Manimahesh Yatra, which was suspended on Monday amid heavy rains and landslides, 6,000 devotees stranded in the Bharmour region have been dropped at Nurpur or Pathankot from Kalsuin.

While relief material was distributed in Kapurthala on August 15, 27, 28, and 29, distribution will continue as required. Similarly, regular relief supplies are being provided in Ferozepur, Gurdaspur, Moga, Pathankot, Fazilka, and Barnala.

Seven NDRF teams are deployed in Gurdaspur, one each in Fazilka and Ferozepur, and two in Pathankot. SDRF has deployed two teams in Kapurthala. The Army, BSF, and Air Force are also engaged in operations in Kapurthala, Gurdaspur, Ferozepur, and Pathankot. Alongside the civil administration, the Punjab Police is extending full support to the affected people.

Meanwhile, senior Congress leader Partap Singh Bajwa has written to Prime Minister Narendra Modi, demanding a special central relief package to provide compensation to the families of the deceased and farmers who have lost their crops, as well as to ensure medical relief, food supplies, and rehabilitation support for displaced families.

Former CM Capt Amarinder Singh has also urged the PM to announce a special relief package for Punjab and to deploy additional central forces to assist in the rescue and operations.

Seven of family among 11 dead in J&K cloudburst

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

AT least 11 people, including seven members of a family, were killed in two separate incidents of landslides triggered by cloudbursts in Reasi and Ramban districts of Jammu and Kashmir on Saturday.

A massive landslide triggered by heavy rains struck the village of Karada in Badar in the Mahore area of Reasi district on Friday night.

The house of one Nazir Ahmad was buried under the landslide. Nazir, his wife Wazira Begum, and five of their children, all minors, were present in the house when the tragedy struck. Tehsildar Mahore Javed Iqbal said all the seven bodies have been retrieved from the debris. Meanwhile, another cloudburst hit Gadgram village in Rajgarh tehsil in Ramban district on Srinagar-Jammu highway at around midnight, damaging two houses, a cattle shed and a school. In the two houses, five residents, three males and two females, were trapped in the debris.

"Bodies of three males and one female have been retrieved while the search is on to retrieve the body of the missing lady," ADDC Ramban Varunjeet Charak said.

Yet another landslide hit the Khuni Nallah area of Ramban district, blocking the flow of the Bichalri river.

Uttarakhand reels under deluge, Dehradun records heaviest rain in 74 years

NARENDRA SETHI @ Dehradun

DEHRADUN has been battered by a historic deluge, recording its highest rainfall in 74 years within a 24-hour period, leading to widespread disruption and pushing major rivers above danger levels. The India Meteorological Department (IMD) has issued a red alert for several districts as the state braces for further heavy downpours.

According to the State Meteorological Department, the capital witnessed 175 mm of rain, while nearby Haripur recorded an even higher 177 mm. This marks the third instance this season of over 175 mm of rainfall in a single day. The previous all-time 24-hour record for Dehradun was a staggering 332.2mm, set way back in 1951. Other areas also experienced intense spells, with Kalsi receiving 72mm in just one hour, Koti 39.5mm, and Jakholi 45.5mm. The relentless downpour in the upper reaches has caused the Alaknanda and Mandakini rivers to swell significantly, flowing well above the danger mark.

The ancient Hanuman Temple's lower complex was completely submerged, with water even entering the sanctum sanctorum, causing significant damage. Those living near the rivers, faced escalating difficulties. "The water level suddenly increased late at night, entering many residential houses," stated

Virendra Negi, a local resident, who, along with Jot Singh, helped in rescue efforts. Sadhus at the Hanuman Temple were seen scrambling to move their belongings from 2 am, aided by local volunteers. Meanwhile, the popular hill station of Mussoorie also bore the brunt of the weather. Heavy rain in the evening, following a brief sunny spell around noon, led to waterlogging on Mall Road, with stones, gravel, and debris washing onto the streets, disrupting daily life. The IMD has issued a red alert for Saturday for Dehradun, Uttarkashi, and Bageshwar.

Sai's outreach to Japan, South Korea bears fruit

CM Vishnu Deo Sai returned from his first 10-day trip to Japan and South Korea to a rousing welcome at Raipur airport on Saturday. The visit, which signifies a diplomatic tour, is also seen as a decisive step towards shaping the future of Chhattisgarh, as the CM engaged with investors and industrial leaders, presenting the state as an emerging investment destination. The state intends to promote industries in Bastar and other Maoist-affected areas creating jobs opportunities. The visit aimed to reassure that the state is no longer a state of minerals and steel but is transforming into a new hub for innovation, technology, and global partnerships.

Shooting championship for promising talents

The state-level shooting championship, organised for the last 23 years by the Jindal Group under the aegis of the Chhattisgarh Pradesh Rifle Association, has begun in Raipur creating hopes for aspiring young talents. The annual sports event is no longer restricted to the elite class; there are massive responses received for the contest. The qualifiers later get selected to perform in the national championship. The contest, which will continue until September 6, will see shooters from every district participating in the 50m, 25m, and 10m rifle and pistol shooting competitions. It was inaugurated by DGP Arun Dev Gautam.

Half of electricity bill rationalised

The Chhattisgarh government is in the process of promoting rooftop solar power among domestic consumers under the PM Surya Ghar Muft Bijli Yojana, following rationalisation of the previous Congress government's popular half-electricity bill scheme. Launched in 2019, the scheme provided a 50% discount on 400 units per month on electricity bills. Without abolishing the scheme, the state has now reduced the limit to 100 units and, around 31 lakh families still continue to get benefit. Besides the Centre, the state government has recently announced additional subsidy up to ₹30,000 aimed at facilitating affordable solar energy.

Jarange remains firm on Maratha quota after meet with Maha govt

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

DEADLOCK between Maratha quota activist Manoj Jarange Patil and the Maharashtra government over the inclusion of the Maratha caste into the Other Backwards class (OBC) continued on Saturday.

The Maharashtra government appointed Justice Sandeep Shinde commission met Patil and read out the work done by the commission so far. Patil's hunger protest entered its second day at Azad Maidan, Mumbai, to press the demand for the inclusion of Maratha into the OBC. Thousands from the Maratha community are also protesting at the Azad Maidan along with Patil.

The activists argued that if other castes can be included in the OBC, then why can't the Marathas? He said that there is no difference between Maratha and Kunbi as marriages took place within both castes and are termed as the same caste marriages.

However, Justice Sandeep Shinde, a state government emissary, said there is no provision to include the entire Maratha community into the Kunbi category and be part of the OBC.

Hindu marriage is valid even without registration certificate: Allahabad HC

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

HINDU marriage does not stand invalid in absence of a registration certificate, the Allahabad High Court has said in a significant verdict.

The court held that the trial courts could not insist on the submission of a marriage certificate in a mutual divorce proceeding under Hindu Marriage Act 1955, especially, when the marriage was not registered but its existence was admitted by both the parties concerned.

A single judge bench of Justice Manish Kumar Nigam set aside the Azamgarh family court's order by rejecting a plea to waive the requirement of filing the marriage certificate.

The matter came before the HC after a petition was filed by a man challenging the order, dated July 31, 2025, given by the Additional Principal Judge, Family Court, Azamgarh.

The man and his wife had jointly filed a petition for divorce by mutual consent under Section 13(B) of Hindu Marriage Act, 1955, on October 23, 2024.

During the proceedings, the Family Court ordered the parties to file their marriage certificate. The petitioner filed an application, supported by his wife, stating that the certificate was not available as their marriage had not been registered. They argued that registration was not compulsory under the Hindu Marriage Act-1955 and prayed for an exemption from this requirement.

The lawyer representing the petitioners submitted that under Section 8 of the Hindu Marriage Act-1955 provided for registration marriage but it did not invalidate a marriage for want of a marriage certificate.

Moreover, the lawyer contended that the Uttar Pradesh Marriage Registration Rules, 2017, made it clear that under Rule 6 of it, a marriage would not be deemed illegal merely because it was not registered.

Rahul says BJP govt stealing votes of Dalits and minorities

RAMASHANKAR @ Ara

CONGRESS leader Rahul Gandhi on Saturday slammed the NDA government at the Centre over the ongoing special intensive revision (SIR) of electoral rolls in election-bound Bihar and accused the BJP, RSS and Election Commission of indulging in 'vote chori'(theft) in the country.

Addressing a public rally during the "Voter Adhikar Yatra" at Ara, Gandhi said that the SIR was an assault on the Constitution and the democratic system of the country, but the Opposition INDIA bloc would not let it happen.

"The BJP, RSS and Election Commission are indulging in vote theft in the country," he said, adding that the Yatra, which started from Bihar, will become a 'country-wide movement' against theft of votes of the people.

Voting is the right of the Dalits, minorities and women, but the Narendra Modi government is stealing votes to win elections. The right to vote has been guaranteed by the Constitution and nobody can snatch it from people, he asserted.

Holding a copy of the Constitution, the LoP in the Lok Sabha said that earlier the BJP succeeded in stealing votes in Maharashtra, Haryana and other parts of the country. "But we remained silent as we didn't have evidence to establish it. "Now we have evidence to substantiate the charges of vote theft," he told the gathering.

Gandhi alleged that the present government at the Centre was meant for big businessmen and corporate houses like Adani and Ambani. "That is why the government wants to suppress the voice of the poor. But INIDIA bloc will not let it to happen," he remarked.

The Congress MP alleged that the Modi government would initiate the process of privatisation of public sector units to benefit big business and corporate houses. At the same time, it was depriving youths of their opportunities through Agni veer scheme.

Earlier, former UP CM and Samajwadi party chief Akhilesh Yadav joined the Yatra in Saran district. Addressing a public rally, Akhilesh hit out at Election Commission, which he said, has become the 'Jugaad Commission' of the BJP.

Gujarat Cong alleges 62 lakh fake voters in state

Gujarat Congress has accused the BJP of voter list manipulation in Navsari, the constituency of state BJP president and Union Minister CR Patil. Party president Amit Chavda claimed that his team had found 30,000 fake voters in Navsari alone, warning that if the entire state were to be checked, the number of bogus entries could rise to 62 lakh.

Surat's diamond & textile industries left in limbo as Trump tariffs kick in

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA
@ Ahmedabad

WITH US President Donald Trump's 50% tariff on Indian goods now in effect, Gujarat's Surat—a city reliant on its diamonds and textile industries—face an unprecedented disruption. Exports worth billions have stalled, artisans fear mass unemployment, and desperation is already pushing some former workers into crime. The crisis has snowballed from factories to families, threatening not just trade but the city's social fabric.

Surat's sparkle dims as a new tariff wall rises in the US, slashing demand for diamonds and textiles overnight.

Jayanti Savaliya, regional president of the Gem and Jewellery Export Promotion Council (GJEPC), warned that the new pricing will drive American buyers away.

"New orders have stopped. With our products becoming 50% costlier in the US, customers will simply stay away." His warning cuts deeper for Special Economic Zones (SEZs), which thrive solely on direct exports. Without intervention, thousands of artisans could soon be jobless, pushing the council to demand government support and marketing funds.

The textile industry, too, finds itself caught in the same storm, Ashok Jirawala, chairman of the Federation of Weavers Association, admitted the tariff hits not only Surat but also Tirupur India's garment hub. "Prices of garments, curtains, bedsheets and yarn will rise by 50%. Competing in the US market will now be impossible," he said, urging exporters to scout for alternative markets.

The blow comes on an already weak pulse. Surat's diamond industry has been in recession for months, forcing the Gujarat government earlier to offer fee-support packages for artisans' children. Now, with exports frozen $4.8 billion worth of gems and jewellery to the US the fallout is massive. Out of 8/9 lakh workers in Surat and almost half of Gujarat's 15 lakh diamond artisans 40% likely to face job losses.

Shockingly, a former diamond worker, Bheraram Bishnoi, was caught in Surat's Varachha area selling opium worth ₹53,400. Police revealed he had turned to crime after losing his diamond business job.

Even factories are showing cracks, Surat City's a Katargam-based diamond firm that catered to foreign traders, abruptly laid off 100 workers this week.

Vrindavani Vastra to come home for Assam exhibition

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @ Guwahati

ASSAM is likely to get the revered 16th century "Vrindavani Vastra" from the British Museum in London for exhibition in 2027. Addressing a press conference in Guwahati on Saturday, CM Himanta Biswa Sarma said the British Museum had, for the first time, come forward to loan the Vrindavani Vastra to Assam for 18 months subject to fulfilment of conditions.

The Vrindavani Vastra is a silk textile, woven in Assam under the guidance of saint-reformer Srimanta Sankardeva. It depicts scenes from the life of Lord Krishna. It is believed that pieces of Vrindavani Vastra were taken to Tibet during 17th/18th century and collected by British explorers during 19th/20th century. Later, the India Museum acquired them and transferred them to the British Museum.

'Jab We Met' redux: Woman leaves home to marry lover, returns with another man

ANURAAG SINGH @ Bhopal

IN a story that reads like the plot of the 2007 cult classic 'Jab We Met' starring Kareena Kapoor and Shahid Kapoor as Geet and Aditya, a 22-year-old woman from Indore left home on August 23 to marry her lover, only to end up tying the knot with a stranger instead.

Shraddha Tiwari, a BBA student, had dreamt of getting hitched to her lover, Sarthak. But she was in for a shock when he didn't turn up at the Indore railway station, from where they were supposed to run away. She was left devastated on learning that he no longer wanted to marry her. Heartbroken, Shraddha boarded a train, without knowing where to go. She got off a few hours later at the Ratlam station—incidentally, the same station in western MP where a similar situation played out in the film.

At the station, Shraddha met Karandeep, an electrician who worked at her college in Indore. Spotting her sitting alone, he approached her, and she narrated to him the sequence of events. After his repeated attempts to convince her to return home failed, Karandeep proposed to Shraddha for marriage, and she readily accepted her suitor's proposal. They then travelled to Maheshwar in Khargone district, where they exchanged vows at a temple. From there, they travelled to Mandsaur.

Meanwhile, unable to find his daughter, Shraddha's father Anil Tiwari announced a ₹51,000 reward for anyone that could give information about her whereabouts. But much to his relief, Shraddha herself rang him up on Thursday and assured him that she was safe. A day later, Shraddha and Karandeep returned to Indore and went to the MIG police station, where she recorded her statement and confirmed that she had tied the knot with Karandeep in Maheshwar.

Shraddha's father was initially reluctant to accept the marriage. But after seeing the photographs of the nuptials, her family decided to accept the couple's relationship.

Houthi PM killed in Israeli airstrike

Al-Rahawi and other ministers were targeted while they were at a govt workshop in Sanaa

CAIRO

THE Iranian-backed Houthis said Saturday an Israeli airstrike killed the prime minister of the rebel-controlled government in the Yemeni capital, Sanaa. Ahmed al-Rahawi was killed in a Thursday strike in Sanaa along with a number of ministers, the rebels said in a statement.

The Israeli military said Thursday that it "precisely struck a Houthi terrorist regime military target in the area of Sanaa in Yemen."

Al-Rahawi, who served as prime minister to the Houthi-led government since August 2024, was targeted along with other members of his Houthi-controlled government during a routine workshop held by the government to evaluate its activities and performance over the past year, the rebels' statement said. The Houthis have repeatedly launched missiles against Israel throughout Israel's war against Hamas in Gaza. The group says the attacks are in solidarity with the Palestinians. Though most of the missiles launched by Yemen are intercepted by Israel, or fragment mid-air, this has done little to deter the attacks.

Earlier in the week, Israeli strikes hit multiple areas across Sanaa, killing at least 10 people and wounding 102 others, according to the Houthi-run health ministry and government officials.

The Houthi rebels vowed on Saturday to avenge the killing of their prime minister and other political leaders in Israeli strikes this week. "We promise to God, to the dear Yemeni people and the families of the martyrs and wounded that we will take revenge," the head of the group's supreme political council, Mehdi al-Mashat, said in a video message posted on Telegram.

He warned foreign companies to leave Israel "before it's too late". The Houthis have launched missiles and drones toward Israel and targeted ships in the Red Sea throughout Israel's war against Hamas in Gaza. The rebels say their attacks are in solidarity with the Palestinians. AP

Massive protest against war on Gaza near Venice Film Fest

VENICE

THOUSANDS protested Saturday against Israel's siege of Gaza on the sidelines of the Venice Film Festival, seeking to move the spotlight from movie drama to real-world trauma.

Organised by left-wing political groups in northeast Italy, the demonstration began in the early evening a few kilometres from the festival where George Clooney, Julia Roberts and Emma Stone have walked the red carpet in recent days. "The entertainment industry has the advantage of being followed a lot, and so they should take a position on Gaza," Marco Ciotola, a 31-year-old computer scientist from Venice, said. "I don't say that everyone needs to say 'genocide', but at least everyone needs to take a position, because this is not a political situation. This is a human situation."

"We all know what is happening and it's not possible that it carries on," said Claudia Poggi, a teacher holding a Palestinian flag as people shouted "Stop the Genocide!" and "Free Palestine". The Gaza war was one of the main talking points in the lead-up to the festival due to an open letter denouncing the Israeli government and calling on the festival to speak out against the war more clearly. The letter, drafted by a group called Venice4Palestine, has garnered more than 2,000 signatures from film professionals, including directors Guillermo del Toro and Todd Field, according to organisers.

A similar initiative was organised at the Cannes Film Festival in May. "The objective of the letter was to bring Gaza and Palestine to the core of the public conversation in Venice," Venice4Palestine co-founder and director said. AFP

Palestinian leader Abbas barred from UN summit on statehood: US official

WASHINGTON

A US official said on Saturday that Palestinian Authority president Mahmud Abbas is among 80 officials being denied visas to attend next month's UN General Assembly, where France is leading a push to recognise a Palestinian state.

"Abbas is affected by this action along with approximately 80 other PA officials," a State Department official said in a statement, detailing those impacted by the extraordinary decision announced on Friday by the United States, a key ally of Israel. The extraordinary step further aligns President Donald Trump's administration with Israel's government.

Israel adamantly rejects a Palestinian state and has sought to lump together the West Bank-based Palestinian Authority with rival Hamas.

"Secretary of State Marco Rubio is denying and revoking visas from members of the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) and the Palestinian Authority (PA) ahead of the upcoming United Nations General Assembly," the State Department said in a statement.

"The Trump administration has been clear: it is in our national security interests to hold the PLO and PA accountable for not complying with their commitments, and for undermining the prospects for peace," it said. Using a term favoured by Trump to deride his legal troubles while out of office, the State Department accused the Palestinians of "lawfare" by turning to the International Criminal Court and International Court of Justice to take up grievances with Israel.

It called on the Palestinian Authority to drop "efforts to secure the unilateral recognition of a conjectural Palestinian state." Israeli Foreign Minister Gideon Saar thanked the Trump administration "for this bold step and for standing by Israel once again."

The Palestinian Authority called for the US to reverse its decision, which it said "stands in clear contradiction to international law and the UN Headquarters Agreement." AFP

WAR WATCH
ISRAEL-GAZA: DAY 695

1 killed, dozens hurt in Russian mass drone and missile attack on Ukraine

KYIV

RUSSIA launched a mass attack on southern Ukraine, local officials said, two days after a rare airstrike on central Kyiv killed 23 and damaged European Union diplomatic offices as US-led efforts to end Moscow's three-year war on its neighbour staggered.

Among other locations hit, the assault overnight into Saturday struck a five-story residential building, killing at least one civilian and wounding 28 people, including children, in the Zaporizhzhia region, Gov Ivan Fedorov reported.

Russia launched 537 strike drones and decoys, as well as 45 missiles, according to Ukraine's Air Force. Ukrainian forces shot down or neutralised 510 drones and decoys and 38 missiles, the force reported. The Kremlin on Thursday said Russia remained interested in continuing peace talks, despite the air attack on Kyiv that day that was one of the largest and deadliest since Moscow's full-scale invasion in 2022.

Thursday's strike was one of the few times Russian drones and missiles have penetrated the heart of the Ukrainian capital. Children were among the dead, and search and rescue efforts continued for hours to pull people from the rubble.

Hours after the attack, the United States approved an USD 825 million arms sale to Ukraine that will include extended-range missiles and related equipment to boost its defensive capabilities, as US efforts to broker peace between Ukraine and Russia appear to have stalled.

Ukraine hits more Russian oil refineries Separately, Ukraine has continued to strike oil refineries inside Russia that it says have supplied Moscow's war effort, the Ukrainian General Staff reported Saturday. It said two facilities were hit overnight: in the Krasnodar region near occupied Crimea, and the Samara region further northeast.

Falling drone debris sparked a fire at a refinery in the city of Krasnodar, regional Russian authorities confirmed Saturday. They later said the blaze had been extinguished, damaging one of the facility's processing units but causing no casualties. The Krasnodar refinery produces approximately 3 million tons per year of petroleum products such as gasoline, diesel and aviation fuel.

A separate drone strike caused a fire at the Syzran Oil Refinery in the Samara province, according to the Ukrainian General Staff. AP

Ancient tombs found in drought-hit Iraq

Khanke (Iraq): Archaeologists in drought-hit Iraq have discovered 40 ancient tombs after water levels in its largest reservoir declined, an official said on Saturday. The tombs, believed to be over 2,300 years old, were unearthed at the edges of the Mosul Dam in the Khanke region. "So far, we have discovered 40 tombs," said Bekas Brefkany, the director of antiquities in Duhok, who is leading the archaeological work at the site.

US court calls Trump tariff illegal: What it means for India, others

Existing tariffs, including on India, will remain in place till Oct 14 when order takes effect

PUSHPITA DEY @ New Delhi

A US appeals court has declared President Donald Trump's tariff measures illegal, ruling that they amount to a misuse of the International Emergency Economic Powers Act (IEEPA). If the Supreme Court upholds this judgment, it could significantly curtail the US President's authority over trade and tariff policies.

The appeals court held that the Congress has the constitutional power to impose tariff measures. However, existing tariffs on several countries, including India, will remain in place till October 14, when the order takes effect. Trump still has the option of appealing to the Supreme Court. Relief for India and other affected countries will depend on the outcome of that case, said Abhijit Das, former head of the Centre for WTO Studies at the Indian Institute of Foreign Trade.

The IEEPA, enacted in 1977, was intended to give US presidents wide authority to impose sanctions and financial restrictions in times of foreign emergencies. It does not, however, explicitly authorize tariffs. Trump invoked the law in 2019 and again in 2025, citing the US trade deficit and alleged inflows of fentanyl—a powerful synthetic opioid—from China, Canada, and Mexico as justification for new duties.

"It is most likely that the Supreme Court may also strike down these measures as illegal. But the catch is—what if Trump secures congressional backing and pushes this through as a National Emergency?" said Dr Rajan Sudesh Ratna, Deputy Head and Senior Economic Affairs Officer at the UN ESCAP South and South-West Asia Office. He called the verdict a "moral victory for all other countries against Trump's tariff policy," but cautioned that Indian exporters will continue to face the 50% duty "till at least December 2025," as a Supreme Court ruling could take until early 2026.

If the Supreme Court affirms the lower court ruling, tariffs imposed under IEEPA may have to be recalculated, potentially opening the door for relief to exporters from countries such as China and Brazil. "The US court battle will shape the future of world trade. The Supreme Court will decide whether tariffs remain a matter of congressional lawmaking, or an instrument of presidential geopolitics," said Ajay Srivastava, founder of the Global Trade Research Initiative (GTRI). He added that the appeals court has already dealt a major blow to Trump's tariff strategy.

The US tariffs of 50% on Indian goods came into force this week. While Trump claimed the move was a punishment for India's purchase of Russian oil, a report by Jefferies suggested it was driven by his "personal pique" at being denied the chance to mediate in the India-Pakistan conflict.

THE CURIOUS CASE OF SHORTSELLERS AND PILs

SHRIRAM SUBRAMANIAN

INDIA'S capital markets have been attracting global investors and the increasing sophistication of trading. Yet, a troubling trend is emerging where a foreign short-seller releases a report, and almost immediately it is followed by a public interest litigation (PIL) in court. This has been noticed in 2023 with the Hindenburg report on the Adani group and in 2025 with the Viceroy report on the Vedanta group. This trend raises the question of whether the Supreme Court should be involved in issues of the capital markets that is already regulated by the Securities and Exchange Board of India (Sebi) and impacts listed companies, investors and the integrity of Indian capital markets.

In January 2023, just days ahead of a ₹20,000 crore follow-on public offer (FPO), Hindenburg Research released a report alleging violations of securities law by the Adani group of companies. The report triggered a chain reaction that led to a sharp erosion of shareholder wealth and raised concerns about banking sector exposure to the group. This was followed by multiple PILs, leading to a Supreme Court appointed committee. The committee ultimately made no adverse findings against the Adani group, while the SEBI was directed to continue its investigation in certain matters. But the damage had already been done.

Now, Vedanta finds itself a target of a similar campaign. In July 2025, a little-known US-based short-seller Viceroy Research released reports alleging governance concerns and financial improprieties by the Vedanta group of companies. The reports alleged a range of issues with data drawn either from publicly available data or speculative interpretations. Vedanta issued a strong rebuttal, calling out the malicious combination of selective misinformation and baseless allegations intended to create false propaganda and manipulate market sentiment. The Viceroy reports landed just as Vedanta was in the final stages of a complex demerger. The company issued a strong rebuttal, calling the allegations malicious and misleading. Almost predictably, news has emerged of a PIL filed in the Supreme Court citing the short-seller's claims.

This is a disturbing trend as courts are repeatedly being drawn into market-related matters, where a regulator already exists. The main concern is not about any one corporate group or one report.

It was about a precedent where market-moving reports, often based on selective data and released at strategic times, be allowed to dictate public discourse and trigger judicial probes and political debates, even before regulatory bodies have had a chance to examine the facts.

First, the reports blur the line between transparency and manipulation. Short-sellers are not disinterested truth seekers; they profit from falling prices. Their research carries a financial motive. Short-selling is part of mature markets worldwide, but when such reports trigger courtroom proceedings in India, the incentive structure shifts. Allegations alone, not proven violations, can move courts and markets alike.

It also undermines India's regulatory architecture. Listed companies are subject to continuous disclosure norms, independent audits, and regulatory oversight by SEBI, which has extensive powers to investigate, penalise, and enforce corrective measures.

There is little to suggest that judicial interventions add value to this framework. If anything, they risk bypassing the specialised expertise of regulators and crowding already burdened judicial dockets.

Third, and more crucially, the real victims are not corporates, but ordinary investors. Mutual fund holders, pensioners, and small shareholders who bear the brunt of sudden stock collapses. In January 2023, investors in Adani group stocks lost more than Rs 7 lakh crore in market value. It took more than a year for the Adani Group stocks to recover.

The danger lies in normalising a process where complex commercial matters are decided not by market regulators or facts, but by public perception, amplified through media cycles and courtroom drama. Foreign short-sellers are neither neutral observers nor public watchdogs; they are traders with a financial stake in decline. When their views become the basis for judicial action, the line between transparency and manipulation begins to blur.

As India aspires to become a developed economy, the strength of its institutions will determine the capital flows. Regulators must remain the fulcrum of market oversight. Courts should step in only where there is demonstrable regulatory failure.

The lesson from recent years is very clear: allegations are not proof. When the motivations behind those allegations are purely financials, the guardrails of regulation and judicial discretion must hold firm. Otherwise, India risks allowing its capital markets to be dictated by speculative reports and PILs, with crores of investors left to pay the price.

'Govt working overtime to cushion exports'

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

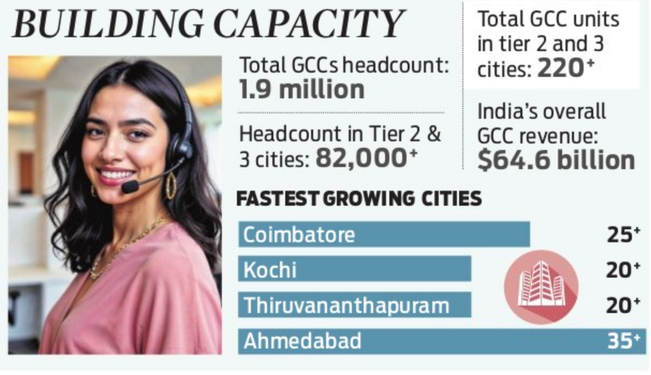

CHIEF Economic Advisor Anantha Nageswaran on Saturday said the government, along with various stakeholders, are actively working overtime to cushion export sectors in view of the recent imposition of an additional 25% tariff by the United States. The US has imposed a steep 50% tariff on Indian goods entering America from August 27.

Nageswaran highlighted that crises, whether minor or major, often act as catalysts, providing focus and purpose for all segments of society 'including the government, private sector, and households' to undertake necessary actions that might otherwise have been delayed.

Since the tariffs took effect, "Conversations have been happening in the last three to four days", involving various exporting and representative bodies, private sector export promotion agencies, and the ministry, he said. Nageswaran, speaking virtually at an ICC organised event, said that the ministries and the Ministry of Finance are "working overtime" to formulate a strategy.

GCCs hit infra, talent pool roadblocks in tier-2, 3 cities

SANAL SUDEVAN @ Chennai

GLOBAL Capability Centres (GCCs) continue to mushroom in India's tier-1 cities, but their expansion into tier-2 and tier-3 locations — once hailed as the next big hubs — is progressing slowly due to gaps in talent availability and infrastructure.

According to a Nasscom-Zinnov report, GCCs in smaller cities grew modestly, with their share rising from 5% in FY2019 to 7% in FY2024. In South India, Coimbatore (25+ centers), Kochi (20+) and Thiruvananthapuram (20+) have emerged as leading hubs. By 2024, over 220 GCCs were operational in tier-2 and tier-3 cities, employing around 82,000 people. Nationwide, India is home to nearly 3,000 GCCs.

"The main challenges for GCCs in tier-2 and tier-3 cities are the limited talent pool, inadequate higher education institutions, infrastructure bottlenecks, and connectivity issues," says M Balasubramaniam, CEO of Stratinfinity, a GCC consultancy firm based in Chennai. "At best, GCCs can hire 5–15% fresh talent locally. The rest must be lateral hires with experience in IT services or consulting, and those professionals are concentrated in tier-1 cities where they command higher salaries. The question is whether they are willing to relocate."

Arindam Sen, Partner and GCC sector leader at EY India, agrees: "The ecosystem in smaller cities is still maturing. Most GCCs recruit through four channels — universities, other GCCs, service firms, and start-ups. But the talent pool is still thin, so companies pursue a 'plus-one' strategy: setting up in a tier-1 city first, and then adding a satellite unit in a tier-2 or tier-3 location," he explains. A recurring concern is the lack of direct connectivity to these cities.

Despite these hurdles, experts point to some advantages. Attrition rates in smaller cities are expected to be lower, as many employees relocating there prefer to settle closer to their hometowns after spending years in metros.

Additionally, state governments are offering incentives such as interest subsidies, payroll support, and cheaper land to attract investments.

Auto industry, OMCs play down E20 issue

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

INDIA'S automobile industry stakeholders and oil marketing companies (OMCs) have refuted concerns about the alleged damaging effects of E20 petrol (a blend of 20% ethanol and 80% petrol) on older vehicles, reiterating that there have been no reports of vehicle damage due to this fuel and that any reduction in mileage is minimal, typically between 2% and 6%

In a press conference held on Saturday, representatives from automobile manufacturing companies, OMCs and Automotive Research Association of India (ARAI) presented benefits such as saving $4 billion in forex, improving farmers' income (payment of Rs 40,000 crore in 2025) and reducing carbon emissions achieved by the blending programme.

They stated that it is currently not possible to provide E10 petrol at fuel stations in India, as nearly all retail outlets have switched over to dispensing E20 petrol. India achieved 20% ethanol blending in petrol by March 2025, five years ahead of its original 2030 schedule.

The joint conference was held days before the Supreme Court agreed to hear a Public Interest Litigation (PIL) challenging the government's ethanol blending mandate on September 1, 2025. A bench led by Chief Justice of India BR Gavai, along with Justices K Vinod Chandran and NV Anjaria, will hear the matter.

Despite multiple assurances by the central government in recent times, there is a growing skepticism among consumers regarding the use of E20 petrol in vehicles. A large number of vehicle owners have claimed experiencing a decline of up to 20% in fuel efficiency for their E5 and E10 petrol-compliant vehicles after they were forced to use E20 petrol.

Ather unveils Pothole Alert feature, EL1 platform

ABHIJEET KABAD @ Bengaluru

WITH potholes in Bengaluru making news much too often, Ather Energy unveiled an interesting feature -- Pothole Alert -- that will allow riders to manoeuvre through the pothole-infested roads. For a start, roads in Bengaluru, Delhi, Mumbai, Pune and Chennai have been mapped.

Ather Energy showcased several concepts like its next-gen EL platform, AtherStack 7.0, Infinite cruise and faster charging solutions at the Community Day 2025 on Saturday.

Elaborating on the pothole feature, Tarun Mehta, Co-founder and CEO, said, "We want to add a whole new way to interact with your scooter. We are reaching out to municipalities. Whoever has value for it can use it. Common data was used to come up with a roadmap of potholes for each city."

The EL platform has been designed with 26 lakh km of field data. It features several changes like a new redesigned electronics stack. Reduced component use is expected to enable 15% faster assembly, allowing faster periodic services, and increasing the service period for each 2-wheeler to 10,000 km.

Voice interaction has been integrated into AtherStack 7.0. Other crucial features include crash alerts, which can differentiate between minor and severe accidents. Also included is the ParkSafe feature, which notifies owners on wrong parking zones.

The LockSafe feature helps one immobilise the scooter with the help of the app in case of a theft. The AtherStack 7.0 is expected to be rolled out in the coming months, while Halo smart helmet was launched on Saturday.

The Junior Pakistan hockey team will travel to India later this year to compete in the FIH Junior World Cup, Hockey India secretary general Bholanath Singh confirmed on Saturday. Satwik & Chirag conjure magic

Indians bury ghosts of 2024 Olympics to overcome familiar rivals, secure medal at Worlds

ANMOL GURUNG @ Chennai

A WEEK or so before the ongoing World Championships, India's doubles specialist Satwiksairaj Rankireddy, during an interview with this newspaper, had said that he and his partner Chirag Shetty were inching closer to their best and they'll be leaving no stone unturned in their pursuit to deliver 'magic' in the BWF World Tour Grade 1 competition.

True to his words, Satwik and Chirag have been conjuring magic at the Adidas Arena in Paris in the last few days. In the wee hours on Saturday, the former World No 1 pair was simply unplayable. Relentless in their approach from start to finish, they bullied the pairing of Aaron Chia and Soh Wooi Yik, their familiar rivals who had caused heartaches to them in the last 12 months.

The Indian pair, after putting up a badminton clinic in the opening game, went on to hold on their advantage and get over the finish line within 43 minutes, thereby securing a spot in the semifinals, which they were scheduled to play later on Saturday. The scorecard read 21-12, 21-19 in Satwik and Chirag's favour. Their masterclass display on the night also helped them secure the coveted medal, their second after the 2022 edition. Also, it was a sweet payback of sorts for the duo who had suffered a painful defeat against the Malaysians at the same stage of the competition during the 2024 Paris Olympics.

The 'magic' they are producing at the moment was missing in the first-half of the season. Injuries and niggles had made their pursuit that much harder. In their most-recent competition — Macau Open — before the Worlds, they had shown some signs of promise but had been eliminated in the quarterfinal stage. Just days before that, they had shown their competitive edge to reach the semis before going down against Aaron and Soh in the last-four stage of the China Open. Satwik had said they were just on a mission to gain match-practice at the elite level. Given how their season had unfolded, there were question marks over their form heading into the Worlds.

> We finally got some redemption. It was the same court, the same arena, a year back exactly... Olympics and now the World Championships. It's always a pleasure playing against them.
>
> — Chirag Shetty

"Feeling really good. It was a re-match of sorts from the Olympics. We've always had some tough battles at the biggest of events and really happy with the win today (Friday; IST Saturday)," Chirag said in the post-match press interaction.

The rivalry, which began with their first meeting in 2017, has produced many enthralling moments over the years. With 11 wins in 14 meetings (before Friday's tie), Aaron and Soh held the aces. But on the day, Satwik and Chirag were a step ahead in every department. They were attacking while making service returns, throwing Aaron and Soh off guard. The Indians were also moving around the court like well-oiled machines and pouncing on every little opening that they were getting.

In the second essay, the theme continued as the Indian duo maintained their stranglehold to take a sizeable lead. But the Malaysians, towards the closing moments, offered some resistance. With some strong defense, backed up by some sharp returns, they were in with a chance of taking the match to the third game. But the Indians snuffed any hopes of Malaysian duo's potential comeback in no time. Satwik later said they they were just looking to remain patient during the closing stages. "In the second game, when we were leading, I was thinking, for sure...we won't win with this much ease, they'll come back stronger for sure because we have played against them many times... I was telling myself don't be in a hurry (to win points), keep playing, one point at a time. I had a belief that we're under control and we don't need to panic."

Rohit, Gill in CoE for fitness tests

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Chennai

AMID the ongoing Duleep Trophy quarterfinals at the BCCI Centre of Excellence, the facility was abuzz with the presence of star India players, including Test and ODI captains, on Saturday. Test captain Shubman Gill, ODI skipper Rohit Sharma, senior pacers Jasprit Bumrah and Mohammed Siraj have all checked in at the CoE for their fitness assessment.

The likes of Gill, Bumrah and others seem to be at the facility for a final fitness assessment and preparations ahead of the men's T20 Asia Cup to be played in Dubai from September 9 The squad members are expected to assemble in Dubai on Thursday and get acclimatised to the conditions.

Rohit and Siraj are undergoing their pre-season fitness assessment over the weekend. While Siraj is coming off a long Test series in England, Rohit last played for India in the Champions Trophy final against New Zealand over five months ago. Since then, he has retired from Test cricket and is now a one-format player. It will be interesting to see how he approaches the upcoming season where he is likely to tour Australia for the three-match ODI series in October.

However, it remains to be seen whether he will play the three one-dayers between India A and Australia A from September 30 in Kanpur. For Siraj, the next international assignment is likely to be the Test series against West Indies in October. As far as Gill is concerned, the newly-appointed T20I vice captain missed the first round of the Duleep Trophy after battling with a flu. For him, it will be about going through the fitness tests and getting ready for the Asia Cup.

Meanwhile, India seamer Renuka Singh Thakur was also seen at the facility on Saturday. Coming off a long injury layoff, the seamer was included in the squad for the three-match ODI series against Australia women and the World Cup that follows. It is interesting that Renuka was at the CoE while the Indian women's team is going through a week-long preparatory camp in Visakhapatnam. Having last played for India in December 2024, Renuka was recovering from a stress fracture and the three ODIs against Australia will be crucial for her to get some much-needed game time and prove her fitness before the home World Cup.

Dravid steps down as head coach of RR

New Delhi: Rajasthan Royals on Saturday announced that head coach Rahul Dravid will step down ahead of the 2026 IPL season, after turning down a "broader position" within the franchise. Dravid was appointed as the head coach of the Royals ahead of the IPL 2025 season. Interestingly, the Royals announcement comes amidst rumours that skipper Sanju Samson also wants to leave the franchise. If Samson also leaves the side, it will leave the Royals in a tricky position a few months before the mini auction.

Want to get good batting time: Amol

Visakhapatnam: Preparing the Indian women's team to win an elusive ODI World Cup title, head coach Amol Muzumdar on Saturday emphasised on getting "a good batting time in the middle" during the ongoing preparatory camp in this picturesque coastal city. "What we want to really get is a good batting time in the middle. Just talking about the bowlers, I think the field settings are very crucial. We will be working on that in the match," Muzumdar said in a video posted by the BCCI.

Malaysia stun Korea, big win for B'desh

AGENCIES @ Rajgir

KOREA'S Asia Cup title defence received a massive jolt after being stunned 4-1 by Malaysia while Bangladesh crushed Chinese Taipei 8-3 in second round of Pool B matches of the hockey tournament here on Saturday.

In the second match of the day, Five-time champions Korea surged ahead in the second minute through a reverse stick field goal by Geonhyo Jin. But Malaysia made a brilliant comeback through Akhimullah Anuar's (29th, 34th, 58th) hat-trick and a field strike from Ashran Hamsani to stun their opponents. Even though just one rung separates Malaysia (12) and Korea (13) in world rankings, the title holders were considered as favourites in the contest. Earlier in the day, Bangladesh completely dominated after the change of ends and pumped in as many as five goals in the last two quarters. Md Abdullah (4th, 26th minutes), Rakibul Hasan (42nd, 43rd) and Ashraful Islam (45th, 58th) scored a brace each.

Ankit, Dhull take North Zone closer to semis

ENS/AGENCIES @ Bengaluru

SKIPPER Ankit Kumar and promising batter Yash Dhull made contrasting hundreds to place North Zone on the cusp of the Duleep Trophy semifinals here Saturday.

North Zone chose to bat again despite holding a 183-run lead. While Ankit (168 batting) and Dhull (133, 157 balls) further bolstered that situation, taking their side to a mammoth 388 for two at the end of third day's play for an overall lead of 563 runs. But the third day of the quarterfinal match was all about the ruthlessness of North Zone in extending their supremacy through Ankit and Dhull who milked 240 runs for the second wicket off just 290 balls. They did it in their own way. Dhull was all aggression and Ankit went about his task in a more mellowed manner.

After the early dismissal of Shubham Khajuria (21), who was castled by Suraj Jaiswal, East Zone bowlers struggled to make any impact on the North pair. Senior pacer Mohammed Shami found occasional movement and troubled the batters, but that was all the East bowlers could manage on the day. Dhull's off-side play was exceptional as 57 runs came off in the arc between point and cover region, as he went past 50 in 49 balls. But the 22-year-old had big slice of fortune when Sharandeep Singh dropped him on 48. Brief scores: North 405 & 388/2 in 90 ovs (Ankit 168 batting, Dhull 133) vs East 230; Central 532/4d & 331/7d in 80.3 ovs (Shubham Sharma 122; Akash Choudhary 2/44) vs North East 185.

Battle of the contenders

Leagues are never decided in August but one of Liverpool or Arsenal have the opportunity to make a massive statement when they face in the Premier League on Sunday. A look...

2012 Arsenal's last league win at Anfield

Arsenal's focus on speeding up

Last year, the Gunnners suffered because their attacking play tended to be soporific, heavily choreographed. They have sought to change as they try and herald a stylistic shift to a more proactive approach in the attacking third. The likes of Ebere Eze and Viktor Gyokeres may unlock that shift as Mikel Arteta aims to break a 20-year league title drought.

Liverpool's transformation

Last season, Arne Slot sought Liverpool to play more of a controlled game, more possession and less heavy metal. This year, the Reds have flipped the script. They are high octane in attack but they have become more vulnerable on the transition. In this very nascent stage, the defending champions have either scored (seven) or conceded (four) a goal once every 16 minutes.

Gauff cruises past Magdalena to enter fourth round

HOWARD FENDRICH

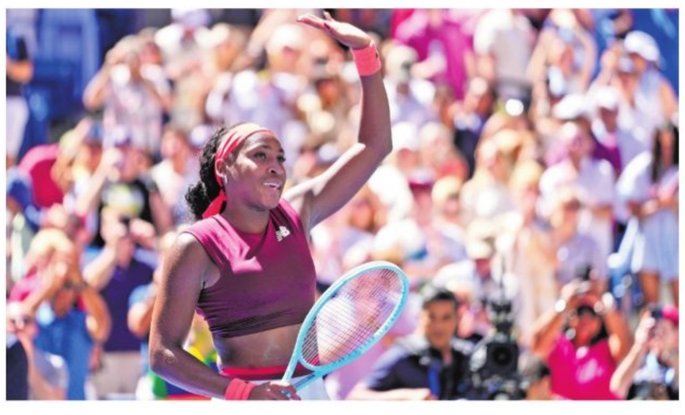

FOR the first time at this U.S. Open, Coco Gauff didn't double-fault in her first service game. And for the first time, she didn't get broken to begin things, either.

With her work-in-progress serve looking the best it has so far in this trip to Flushing Meadows, the No. 3-seeded Gauff turned in by far her most solid — and stress-free — performance Saturday, defeating No. 28 Magdalena Frech of Poland 6-3, 6-1 to reach the fourth round of a tournament she won in 2023. "It's been like an emotional week ... but I think I needed those tough moments to move forward," said Gauff, who will face Naomi Osaka or Daria Kasatkina on Monday. "I was putting too much pressure on myself."

After two difficult wins under the lights at night in Arthur Ashe Stadium, Gauff got the schedule started with an 11:30 a.m. match. With shade covering nearly half of the blue court on a cloudless morning, there were none of the tears or struggles that marked her earlier appearances.

"It was kind of hard to see the ball," Gauff said, "but overall, I'm happy with the way I played."

In both of her earlier outings, against Ajla Tomljanovic on Tuesday and Donna Vekic on Thursday, Gauff fell behind 2-0. Against Frech, the 21-year-old from Florida went up 3-0, before running into a hint of trouble: Gauff slapped a second serve into the net to double-fault and get broken, getting Frech within 3-2, and soon it was 3-all after 26 minutes.

Coco Gauff waves after the win against Magdalena Frech on Saturday | AP

Gauff's title defense at the U.S. Open in 2024 ended with a fourth-round loss in which she had 19 double-faults. She has been the worst player on the women's tour in that category this season and reached a low point with 23 in a victory at Montreal last month, and 14 more in her next match.

Djokovic survives back issue

Novak Djokovic believes his tennis is still good enough to compete for a 25th Grand Slam title. It's his body that has to show it can hold up. Djokovic shook off a back problem to beat Cam Norrie on Friday and, at 38, become the oldest man to reach the fourth round since Jimmy Connors was the same age in 1991. Djokovic pulled away to win 6-4, 6-7 (4), 6-2, 6-3. "The wear and tear on the body all these years is taking a toll, and I'm aware of it, but I'm resisting it," Djokovic said. Results (Select | Rd 3): Men: N Djokovic (SRB x7) bt C Norrie (GBR) 6-4, 6-7 (4), 6-2, 6-3; T Fritz (USA x4) bt J Kym (SUI) 7-6 (3), 6-7 (9/11), 6-4, 6-4; Women: A Sabalenka (BLR x1) bt L Fernandez (CAN x31) 6-3, 7-6 (2); M Vondrousová (CZE) bt J Paolini (ITA x7) 7-6 (7/4), 6-1; J Pegula (USA x4) bt V Azarenka (BLR) 6-1, 7-5; C Gauff (USA x3) bt M Frech (POL x28) 6-3, 6-1. AP

Fernandes lifts Man Utd gloom, Tottenham lose

AGENCIES @ London

BRUNO Fernandes eased the pressure on Manchester United boss Ruben Amorim as his last-gasp penalty sealed a 3-2 win over Burnley, while Thomas Frank suffered his first Premier League defeat as Tottenham manager on Saturday.

Just days after a humiliating League Cup second-round loss at fourth-tier Grimsby, United were on the brink of another damaging result after promoted Burnley twice came from behind at Old Trafford. Amorim had admitted after the Grimsby debacle that he sometimes thinks about quitting and often hates his players. His mood would have been even darker before Fernandes came to the rescue seven minutes into stoppage time.Tottenham were beaten 1-0 by Bournemouth to end Frank's strong start since he arrived from Brentford. Results: United 3-2; Sunderland 2-1 Brentford; Tottenham 0-1 Bournemouth; Wolves 2-3; Chelsea 2-0 Fulham; Leeds 0-0 Newcastle.

TRUMP TARIFF CHURN ACROSS GLOBAL ECONOMIES

SUNITHA NATTI @ Hyderabad

US President Donald Trump's tariff terror continues to unleash economic uncertainty and chaos. If countries like Indonesia, the Philippines, and Thailand rushed to secure a deal bowing under pressure, others like Brazil and India are standing firm. Still others like China and Japan, which have a deal, seem to be contemplating the contents of the agreement. If they do prefer to re-look the done deals, it could lend emotional support to India's cause.

For its part, India has called the tariffs 'unfair and unjustified'. According to S&P Global Ratings, 75% of India's exports to the US are exempt from tariffs. The impact is only on $44 billion worth of trade, or 1.05% of India's GDP. It means, the tariff onslaught is more a psychological pressure to fall in line, than a meaningful trade economic treaty.

The same holds true for everyone. Those who managed a deal did so to retain access to the world's largest economy. But almost every country is exploring bilateral trade pacts other than the US to minimise the impact in the medium-to-long term. Then there are others like Brazil that are going all-out to confront the US and protect their domestic interests at all costs. Here's a country-wise look at the measures to deal with the US tariffs.

Brazil

Brazil, the only country other than India that's facing punitive levies of as high as 50%, isn't caving in. Initially in April, tariffs stood at just 10%, but the Latin American nation attracted Trump's wrath, which all agree is not due to trade, but because of the ongoing trial by the Brazilian government against Trump's right-wing ally Jair Bolsonaro for coup-plotting.

Brazil imports from the US far outweigh its exports with Washington, running a trade surplus of $28.6 billion in goods and services in 2024. Still, it was slapped with 50% tariffs, potentially launching a trade war with Latin America's biggest economy, which sells large amounts of beef, coffee, steel and others.

Per reports, the US gets about a third of its coffee and more than half its orange juice from Brazil. Helpfully, oils, orange juice, and some aircraft parts have been excluded from tariffs for now. Brazil imports a large number of steel-based manufactured products from the US, including industrial machinery, car engines and parts for its aerospace industry.

With Trump justifying high tariffs for the ongoing trail against Bolsonaro, relations between the US and Brazil have been at an impasse. With no solution in sight, Brazil lodged a complaint at the World Trade Organisation (WTO) early this month, stating that the US was 'blatantly violating core commitments undertaken within the WTO framework'. It also accused the US of breaching the most-favoured nation principle, which encourages trading partners to treat each other fairly.

In fact, in April, it adopted a new Economic Reciprocity Law, which allows the government to take countermeasures against countries that unilaterally act to harm Brazil's competitiveness. And last week, perhaps as an action of last resort, President Luiz Inacio Lula da Silva reportedly authorised a study on retaliatory actions that Brazil could take for the punishment imposed by Trump. The Ministry of Trade and Industry will have 30 days to determine whether the US tariffs fall under the Economic Reciprocity Law. The measures could also include suspending trade concessions, investments, or intellectual property agreements. Lastly, Brazil announced plans to buy several domestic products hit by the US levy, such as acai, coconut water, mangoes, honey, fish and Brazilian nuts to help producers tide over the crisis.

Japan

Historically, Japan often found itself in the US' crosshairs over trade and tariffs. If the 1980s trade war was due to auto exports, subsequent years saw both countries sparring over export of textiles, steel and semiconductors. In 2025 though, Japan chose to avoid a direct confrontation, and instead gave in to Trump's demands.

That's because passenger cars, the lifeblood of the Japanese economy, have the largest share of 24.3% of total export value to the US. The tariff uncertainty slumped exports to the US in July, recording the biggest monthly decline in four years.

Perhaps fearing worse, the Japanese government struck a deal with Trump, which reduced tariffs on Japanese imports from 25% to 15% in return for the massive investment pledge.

In return, Japan agreed to import Ford's large F-150 pickup trucks, besides easing restrictions on American cars. Importantly, Japan agreed to increase imports of American goods by 75% besides committing additional purchases of US defence equipment. Above all, Japan will likely invest $550 billion in the US.

But, the terms of trade aren't fully finalised and perhaps emboldened by India's deepening face-off with the US, Japan seems to be re-thinking its approach. In fact, its trade negotiator abruptly cancelled a planned trip to Washington last week, raising concerns over the prospects of the $550 billion investment package, of which Trump wants 90% of investment profits to remain in the US. The proposed visit was expected to iron out the contentious point on how investment returns would be shared between Washington and Tokyo.

Moreover, while the US expects Japanese companies to invest their own capital, Japanese authorities insist that this commitment represents a line of credit, provided by government-affiliated financial institutions.

Lastly, Tokyo sought clear guarantees that tariffs on cars and auto parts will reduce to 15%, but there has been no presidential order, which is upsetting Japan. In other words, the trade deal right now is only a broad outline rather than a comprehensive agreement and the final details are yet to be worked out. Unhelpfully, as Treasury Secretary Scott Bessent noted, the agreement with Japan will be reviewed every quarter, meaning that if Trump is not satisfied with progress, he may reinstate 25% tariffs.

China

Everyone expected the US-China trade war to escalate, but surprising all, both countries managed to strike a deal early on. Thankfully, tensions between the world's two largest economies significantly improved since April, when both countries were engaged in an intense tit-for-tat tariff war. At one point, duties reached triple digits on both sides.

In June, however, both countries agreed on a trade framework that included easing controls on Chinese rare-earth exports as well as rollback of some American tech restrictions for shipments to China. US tariffs on Chinese goods reduced from 140% to 30%, while Chinese levies on US goods fell from 125% to 10%.

But now, Washington is accusing Beijing of violating its agreement and slow-walking export license approvals for rare earths. Moreover, China, which initially agreed to buy 500 aircraft from Boeing, is taking its time to finalise the terms of trade, sparking concerns for the US. China even refused to bow down to Trump's demands and has even backed India over the 50% duties imposed on it. Underscoring the shift in relations, China's envoy in Delhi Xu Feihong recently denounced Washington's steep tariffs on Indian goods, calling the US a bully. Last week, Chinese Foreign Minister Wang Yi too echoed the conciliatory tone during a Delhi visit, urging the neighbours to see each other as partners rather than adversaries or threats.

Just last week, Trump also warned of steeper tariffs on China if exports of rare-earth magnets were curbed. China dominates rare-earth magnet production, controlling about 90% of global supply, and maintains a similar grip over the refining of the minerals used to make them. That dominance has given Beijing significant leverage in its trade talks with Washington.

On balance though, China seems to be on the winning side, containing the impact of tariffs. Its GDP grew by 5.3% in the first half of 2025, while exports increased by 7.3% in the first seven months, showing no signs of slowdown whatsoever.

Indonesia

Indonesia was one of the few countries that moved quickly to sign a deal with Trump. Tariffs were consequently reduced from 32% to 19% in July. The deal allowed Indonesia to secure an exemption for its principal products such as palm oil, cocoa and rubber. It helped the US as well as it gets about 85% of its palm oil imports from Indonesia alone.

For Indonesia, the deal ensures continued access to its second-largest export market. In 2024, Indonesia's exports to the US stood at $40 billion covering sectors like textiles, electronics, rubber, palm oil, and footwear. The US claims that an array of non-tariff barriers contributed to its $17.9 billion trade deficit with Indonesia and hence imposed higher levies. In return for lower tariffs, Indonesia agreed to buy US jets, energy and agri products, which currently come from several countries like Argentina, Brazil, India, Australia and others. Importantly, the issue of transshipment — routing of Chinese goods via Indonesia to evade existing US tariffs -- remains unsettled. While Trump claimed that goods transshipped from Indonesia could be subject to double tariffs, like Vietnam's 40%, there has been no presidential order as of now.
